RELATIONS ALREADY STRAINED . . .

French Want Morocco Interior Chief Arrested

Paris (AP)—France issued international arrest orders Thursday for Interior Minister Mohammed Oufkir of Morocco and two others believed involved in the Mehdi Ben Barka political kidnaping.

The announcement from the public prosecutor's office carried serious implications on the state of relations between France and Morocco, already strained by the incident.

Oufkir has admitted he was in Paris when Ben Barka, a leftist Moroccan exile, was kidnaped Oct. 29 but declined invitations to come back to aid in the investigation.

The arrest warrant also named Maj. Ahmed Dlimi, director of the Moroccan internal security service, and another person listed only as Lardi Chtouki.

The French government is concerned because it has been established that French secret service agents assisted in the kidnaping. Ben Barka is believed to have been slain.

Only Wednesday President Charles de Gaulle ordered a shakeup in the secret service. Gen. Paul Jacquier, the chief, was retired and the service was transferred from Premier Georges Pompidou's office to the defense ministry. There have been reports a member of De Gaulle's staff and a top assistant in the interior ministry knew of plans for the kidnaping.

Left Bank

But Oufkir has denied involvement, and the ex-convict apparently shot himself before police could talk to him.

The announcement said that an extradition request for another French ex-convict, Georges Boucheseiche, had not been honored. Boucheseiche, whose suburban home was apparently involved, was in Morocco by the time police picked up the trail.

In The Hour

The international arrest warrant was announced within an hour after a report that a reorganizational plan for the French police and secret service had been ordered drawn in view of their involvement in the case.

De Gaulle's staff announced that he has asked Leon Noel, an experienced magistrate, to draw up the plan. Noel holds the title ambassador of France and is former president of the constitutional council.

The plan should cover the organization, composition and functions of the country's various police services, and their relations with the court system, the announcement said.

24-Hour Drivers' Stamina Amazing

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—Stamina of test drivers completing a 1,400-mile, 24-hour endurance run has surprised Ohio State University researchers conducting safety experiments.

Volunteer participants in the driving fatigue study did much better than expected, researchers reported.

Of seven subjects taking part in the exploratory project, only two were unable to finish the prescribed task of driving 24 consecutive hours at 70 m.p.h. The two failing to complete the test drove for about 21 hours each before they asked or were told to stop.

The finding was the primary conclusion in a report on the project by Robert R. Stafford, research associate in the systems research group at OSU's engineering experiment station.

The test drive took place recently on Interstate 71 between Columbus and Cincinnati. It was aimed at answering such questions as how fatigue affects vision, reaction time and general alertness of a driver.

Stafford explained that when these questions are determined, finally, "They will enable us to better design vehicles, highways and driving methods to reduce the cause of fatigue."

In the initial endurance runs, the drivers were asked to maintain the steady 70 m.p.h. pace. Their only rest during the eight round trips between Columbus and Cincinnati came during brief gasoline stops.

They drove a specially-instrumented auto equipped to measure simultaneously 51 channels of information about the driver and the vehicle. Drivers underwent a series of tests at each refueling stop to determine their level of fatigue.

Various drivers reflected their response to the stress in different ways. In one case, for instance, a driver virtually lost control of the vehicle's forward movement, such as maintaining speed, but was still able to keep the car in the proper lane without weaving.

Economic Outlook Bright For 1966

By DICK BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

The economic outlook for 1966 is bright and will remain so due to continued spending, some 200 Lincoln businessmen were told Thursday.

Ragnar Naess, senior partner of Naess & Thomas investment counselors of New York, said there is no indication of an end to spending which highlighted 1965 and that the trend will continue for a number of months.

Another item which adds to the outlook is the improvement of loans for expansion, Naess said. His talk was sponsored by the Trust Division of the National Bank of Commerce of Lincoln.

War Feared

A large increase in the war would change the rosy prediction, he said. He cited price controls as the major factor.

Peace, if it presented itself, would not have a serious effect on business, he said.

"Peace would be bullish."

On the other hand, 1966's prosperity will continue to rise provided the conflict in Viet Nam is neither increased nor decreased, he declared.

That prospect "is good for the economic outlook," he said.

Naess indicated that 1966 will see a settling-down, or leveling-off on the stock market and he urged "selectivity" in stock purchases.

"Some (stocks) went up so high in 1965 that they may not rise much higher," he said.

Steady Returns

For investment purposes he further urged local businessmen to look to stocks with history of steady returns rather than exaggerated growth.

Investment areas which will do well in 1966 are electronics, publishing, education, apparel, brewing, and rugs, he said. He labeled office equipment as an outstanding investment area.

Life insurance, which has met with problems the past two years or so, also promises to be a good investment this year as well as fire and casualty insurance, he said.

He noted, however, that fire and casualty investment has been an "up and down" affair.

"It's ridiculous to do so," he said, citing a "more stable economy" as his reason.

This is not an era like that of 1937 when steel prices plunged from 100% to 30% in nine months, he said.

Softening Declines

LBJ: Hanoi Blocks Talks

. . . TRUMAN PEACE CENTER SET UP

Independence, Mo. (AP) — President Johnson accused North Viet Nam Thursday of blocking peace talks and said "if the aggressors are ready for peace . . . let them come to the meeting place and we will meet them there."

The door of peace must be open for all who wish to avoid the scourge of war, Johnson said, "but the door of aggression must be closed and bolted if man himself is to survive."

Johnson joined former President Harry S. Truman at a ceremony establishing the Truman Center for the Advancement of Peace. The multi-million dollar center, financed privately, is to be erected on the campus of Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Pen, Sword

Johnson said, "On the day that others decide to substitute reason for terror, when they will use the pen instead of the handgrenade, when they will replace rational logic for inflammatory invective, then on that very day, the journey toward peace can really begin."

Eight other speakers, including Chief Justice Earl Warren, lauded creation of the center. Warren said it is fitting the institute will be named for Truman, whom he called "one of the great men of peace of our time."

Truman had prepared a response, but did not deliver it. The former president, who will be 82 in May, was obviously tired after sitting through more than 90 minutes of speeches.

Choice Obvious

"It is all to obvious," Truman had written, "that if we do not abolish war on this earth, then surely, one day, war will abolish us from the earth."

Johnson was in the Truman Library for less than an hour.

Johnson touched, for the first time, on the moral problems of birth control when he said:

"We will increase our efforts in the great field of human population. The hungry world cannot be fed until and unless the growth of its resources and the growth in its population come into balance.

"Each man and woman—and each nation — must make decisions of conscience and policy in the face of this great problem."

MASS KLAN MEET FOOLS CALIFORNIAN

Bakesfield, Calif. (AP)—An excited motorist telephoned the Kern County Sheriff's office that there was a mass rally of the Ku Klux Klan along the Kern River near Democrat Hot Springs.

Sgt. John Howard and Lt. Phil Munding asked what was happening.

At that moment the men removed their hoods and it turned out they were Negroes.

Harry Handed Medicare Card No. 1 By LBJ

Independence, Mo. (AP) — Harry Truman got medicare card No. 1 personally from President Johnson Thursday, and the President signed the application card as a witness.

"When the fellows at the Social Security office heard I was coming here they asked me to bring you your new medicare card," said Johnson.

Johnson signed the medicare bill in the same Truman Library auditorium, where he spoke Thursday, July 30, 1965.

"No. 1 is for you and No. 2 is for Mrs. Truman," Johnson said.

Hanoi Chants, 'Attack, Attack'

. . . YEAR OF HORSE DAWNS

Saigon (AP)—Radio Hanoi jolted hopes that a more lasting peace might follow the military lull marking the advent Friday of the Year of the Horse, successor in Oriental reckoning to the Year of the Snake.

The truce was broken by minor actions Thursday night and Friday, but a U.S. spokesman described them as harassments and said no major infractions of the cease-fire had been reported.

Blame Guess

He said it was not clear which side started firing in any specific incident and where to place the blame was anyone's guess.

He said American, Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers had all suffered unspecified casualties in the incidents which generally found small patrol units involved.

The Red station broadcast calls on both the Viet Cong and a Communist North Vietnamese spokesman for harder attacks.

"Let our whole people march forward to continually strike deadly blows at the U.S. aggressors, annihilate and disintegrate many puppet (South Vietnamese) troops and win greater victories," said the lunar new year's message of the Viet Cong.

Fatherland Front

Ton Duc Thang of North Viet Nam, president of the Fatherland Front, urged "more and still greater successes to bring the national salvation war against U. S. imperialist aggression to early victory."

The front is North Viet Nam's main political organization, grouping the Communists with other nationalist parties such as the old Viet Minh and minority representatives. Ton Duc Thang is also vice president of North Viet Nam.

Cease-fire orders—after a ragged start—had brought a measure of peace to Viet Nam for the lunar new year, which the Vietnamese called Tet. It arrived at midnight.

In the broader field, the possibility of early negotiations to end the war appeared to be fading rapidly as President Johnson's public peace offensive still failed to draw any favorable response from Ho Chi Minh's Hanoi government.

Developments

Among related developments abroad:

—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, detailing a $12.7 billion war money request, told Congress the administration's budgeting is based on an assumption that fighting will continue through June 1967. (Story on Page 2.)

—The Soviet news agency Tass cited the request for the supplemental appropriation as "evidence of the United States' intention not only to continue the dirty war in Viet Nam but to escalate it."

—Harland Cleveland, U. S. permanent representative on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's council, told newsmen in Paris the United States would like to see its European allies engaged in Viet Nam "to the maximum extent possible." As for the commitment of European troops, "it is not for us to say," he said.

Thant's View

—U.N. Secretary-General U Thant told a New York news conference the Saigon government—a military establishment headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky—should be made more representative with the view of giving the Viet Cong a direct voice in any peace negotiations.

—A Japanese visitor to Moscow, Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina, urged in a two-hour talk with Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromkyo that the Soviet Union use its influence on North Viet Nam to bring about a peaceful settlement.

—In Belgrade, Yugoslav Foreign Minister Marko Nikezic suggested that the Vietnamese communists should be wary of Red China's "policies of adventurism" and designs for spheres of influence.

—President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines announced he will send a survey mission to South Viet Nam.

It appeared to be a tense period for Ky's government. Reliable sources said military security agents have arrested a number of junior officers for allegedly plotting to overthrow the government and are keeping two generals under surveillance.

Fringe Benefits Worth Long Journey For Pair

Beatrice—The jobs pay only "board and room and $15 a month," but the fringe benefits alone are worth traveling half way round the world.

Louise Van Setten came from the Netherlands and Joy Christian from India, both of them new in their professions. Beatrice Mennonite Hospital is making her a better dietician and him a better male nurse—and both better citizens of world Christendom.

"The main purpose is to mix with different members of our faith that we may be strengthened in it," explained Louise of their year's visit, sponsored by Mennonite Central Committee (MCC). "We are finding that people of the church are much the same regardless of their national ties."

Contrasts

An obvious case in point is the contrast—and similarity—between Louise and Joy themselves. Her upbringing was as the daughter of a Dutch eye doctor; Joy was nurtured to manhood by missionaries who had named him as a baby.

"I want to go back to serve my people and my country," said the male RN, radiant as his well-chosen name. The 27-year-old has been assisting an American doctor at Madhipura Christian Hospital.

In a few months Joy will move on to Pennsylvania to complete his American visit, but Miss Van Setten will remain at Beatrice her entire work year. A third Beatrice guest, Joe Wurgler of France, is deriving his MCC experience from a farm rather than at the hospital.

Engaged

For the comely young dietician, by the way, international acquaintance has begat one fringe benefit never planned by the MCC. She was recently engaged to Clayton Guhr, a hospital employe from Newton, Kan.

"I never planned on it either," beamed the personable miss. "It just happened and it's wonderful."

"The main purpose is to mix with different members of our faith that we may be strengthened in it," explained Louise of their year's visit, sponsored by Mennonite Central Committee (MCC). "We are finding that people of the church are much the same regardless of their national ties."

Contrasts

An obvious case in point is the contrast—and similarity—between Louise and Joy themselves. Her upbringing was as the daughter of a Dutch eye doctor; Joy was nurtured to manhood by missionaries who had named him as a baby.

"I want to go back to serve my people and my country," said the male RN, radiant as his well-chosen name. The 27-year-old has been assisting an American doctor at Madhipura Christian Hospital.

In a few months Joy will move on to Pennsylvania to complete his American visit, but Miss Van Setten will remain at Beatrice her entire work year. A third Beatrice guest, Joe Wurgler of France, is deriving his MCC experience from a farm rather than at the hospital.

Engaged

For the comely young dietician, by the way, international acquaintance has begat one fringe benefit never planned by the MCC. She was recently engaged to Clayton Guhr, a hospital employe from Newton, Kan.

"I never planned on it either," beamed the personable miss. "It just happened and it's wonderful."

Money May Go For Big Firepower Application

. . . McNAMARA ASKS $12.7 BILLION

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara asked Congress for another $12.7 billion in spending authority Thursday and said some of it may be used for a "massive application of firepower" in Viet Nam.

The defense chief said the extra money backing is needed between now and June 30 for beefing up U.S. activity in the Viet Nam war and augmenting military strength elsewhere.

"We have assumed, for budgeting purposes, that combat operations will continue through the end of June 1967," he said.

Public Version

In the public version of a statement he presented at a closed Senate committee session on the supplemental money request, McNamara included these points:

1. Creation of another Marine division as part of the general 112,843-man increase in strength for all of the four services.

2. A boost in buying of ammunition to provide "a massive application of firepower to enhance the effectiveness of our forces and reduce casualties."

Deployment

3. Preparation for deploying, if necessary, "even more forces if the communists choose to expand their operations in South Viet Nam," beyond the 190,000 Americans already in Viet Nam.

In the text, McNamara gave no specifics on how or when fighting might intensify in Viet Nam.

But after a morning session of the Senate Armed Services Committee and an appropriations subcommittee, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, told newsmen McNamara "implied that it would not be too long before fighting resumed if the President's peace offensive fails."

McNamara, according to Senate sources, gave no deadline for expiration of the lull which has stopped bombing of North Vietnamese targets.

Wheeler: Can Win

Russell quoted Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as saying the United States can win the war in Viet Nam.

The buildup in the armed forces, as further revised by Thursday's estimates, would increase them this way for the current fiscal year ending next June 30:

Army by 45,599 to an authorized year-end strength of 1,233,693.

Navy by 8,025 to 727,873.

Marines by 54,994 to 278,184, including the new division. The corps now has three regular and one reserve division.

Air Force by 4,225 to 853,359.

It Depends

At the Pentagon, newsmen were told that McNamara's statement should not be construed as meaning a decision has been made on additional forces for Viet Nam. This, it was said, depends on whether Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, asks for more—and also on what the communists do.

A measurement of intentions was presented, however, in McNamara's discussion of ammunition needs for massive firepower in Viet Nam.

His financial accounting noted that $1.1 billion was contained in the original budget, increased by $800 million in the supplemental request of last August and now increased again by $2.1 billion. The new total of $4.1 billion can be translated into weight of firepower.

$1 A Pound

Pentagon procurement and fiscal experts use a rule-of-thumb in estimating ammunition: one ton costs about $2,000.

This, therefore suggests a procurement for the fiscal year of about two million tons of ammunition of all kinds—bombs, rockets, missiles, artillery shells, small arms material, pyrotechnics.

McNamara gave some examples of how ammunition consumption already has skyrocketed in Viet Nam:

About 25,000 tons of aircraft - delivered munitions (bombs, rockets, machine-gun ammunition) was used during last July; more than 40,000 tons in December or an annual rate of 480,000 tons—"and this supplemental will support a considerably higher rate."

Ground forces, including helicopters working with them, are now using ammunition at a cost rate of about $100 million a month, but "we are budgeting for a consumption rate considerably higher."

2,905 Aircraft

He asked for more funds to replace aircraft lost in action or by attrition as well as for additional aircraft. These would include 900 fixed-wing planes, almost all of them combat types, and 2,005 helicopters.

Although the loss rate for aircraft "continues low," McNamara said, the rapidly increasing number of sorties—is resulting in larger total losses.

In 1965, he said, 275 fixed wing aircraft and 76 helicopters were lost in South Viet Nam and in strikes against North Viet Nam.

"We anticipate that 1966 losses will be somewhat higher," McNamara said.

Pentagon sources explained this would be due to the greater number of sorties, not to any big buildup in numbers or air craft in Viet Nam.

Johnson Invites Indira To U.S.

New Delhi, India (AP)—India's new leader, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, announced Thursday she has accepted an invitation from President Johnson to visit the United States.

She could not say when she would make the trip.

Johnson messaged his good wishes to Mrs. Gandhi Thursday, pledged "friendship and cooperation" and asked her to visit him soon in Washington for talks "on the momentous problems we both face."

Mrs. Gandhi's predecessor, the late Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, had been scheduled to visit the United States Feb. 1. He died Jan. 11 in Tashkent, Soviet Central Asia, after talks with President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan.

He'd Be Delighted

President Johnson said he would be "delighted" if Mrs. Gandhi could make the visit to Washington Feb. 1, but acknowledged her pressing duties might make this difficult.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin also sent congratulations on her selection Wednesday as India's new prime minister, and said his country is "deeply sympathetic to her problems."

The Kosygin and Johnson messages hinted that after she is sworn in Monday, Mrs. Gandhi can expect more than good wishes—namely increased economic aid—to help tackle India's immense problems of poverty, food shortages, illiteracy and exploding population.

Roughly Same Aim

Between them, America and the Soviet Union have provided the major share of India's foreign aid. And although there has been a struggle for the greater influence here, both Washington and Moscow in recent years have had roughly the same objective: to ward off the economic chaos that would admit Communist Chinese influence.

America has given India more than $6.1 billion in development aid since 1951 and has shipped food worth more than $3.1 billion.

MORO LOSES VOTE

The vote was 221 for the bill and 250 against (required majority 236). Only 474 were present in the chamber of deputies. Many of the 630 seats were empty. Three deputies abstained.

The bill proposed a nationwide system of state-run day care schools to supplement private nursery schools.

The bill in itself had little political significance, but Moro had committed his government to a confidence vote on whether at that time to continue debate on the proposed law. He won comfortably then by 317-232.

So startling was the outcome that the first edition of the morning newspaper Il Messaggero wrote that "this law can be considered already an accomplished fact." It said the bill would go on to the senate, where it would win approval and become law.

Political sources said it was obvious that some in the coalition government — made up of Moro's Christian Democrats and the Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans — voted against the bill along with its expected opponents, the Communists, Fascists and Liberals.

TOP AUSSIE MAN OF SEA

Harold E. Holt, 57, elected Australian prime minister and head of the Liberal Party Thursday, adjusts flippers before going spearfishing earlier near his Melbourne home. Holt succeeds Sir Robert Menzies, 71, who retired after 16 consecutive years in office. Menzies also resigned from Parliament, cutting the coalition government's majority to one. Menzies said his top achievement was improving U.S.-Australian relations, highlighted by the Anzus treaty, aligning the U.S., Australia and New Zealand in defense.

Urge Electoral College Abolition, 4-Year Terms

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson, urging Congress not to be a "prisoner of the past," called Thursday for two constitutional amendments — one to give House members a four-year term and the other to abolish the Electoral College.

In a message to the House and Senate, Johnson said the changes were long overdue. He told the lawmakers: "Our democracy cannot remain static."

In the Electoral College reform, Johnson also asked Congress to approve a provision to cover the death of the president-elect or vice president-elect between the November election and the counting of the electoral votes in December.

Judiciary Groups

Both proposed amendments will go the Judiciary Committees of the House and Senate. In the House, opposition is certain from Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the Judiciary Committee.

Even before the President's message was read his proposal touched off controversy in the House. Criticism of the four-year term ranged from a charge that it had "serious drawbacks" to "very disturbing." However, its backers termed the proposal "long overdue."

Johnson ticked off a long list of arguments he hoped would win support for his proposals.

If the present term for a House member is extended from two to four years, Johnson said it would:

—Give the congressmen more time to deal with legislation.

—Reduce the influence of big political contributors, lobbyists, and special interest groups.

—Attract "the best men" into competition for seats in the House.

People's Will

As for the Electoral College, Johnson said it should be eliminated to "assure that the people's will shall not be frustrated in the choice of their president and vice president."

Under the present system, Johnson said there was a "grave risk" that unpledged electors could be manipulated in a close presidential race to block election of a major candidate. It would then be up to the House to choose the president.

In the Senate, the proposed amendments will be considered by a subcommittee headed by Sen. Birch Bayh Jr., D-Ind. Bayh has endorsed a four-year term for House members. And he already has scheduled hearings to start Feb. 7 on the Electoral College proposal.

Miners Acquitted

Madrid, Spain (AP) — The National Court of Public Order acquitted all 11 Asturian miners tried here last week on charges of illegal association. The prosecution had demanded jail sentences of four to five years. The miners were arrested last year following labor disorders in Asturias, Spain's largest coal mining area, but were subsequently allowed bail pending their trial.

When What's Wrong Is Right Stirs Debate

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

Ordinarily, lying is considered wrong. But when it would save an innocent person's life, then a lie takes on a modified moral quality. As some see it, the general "wrong" becomes a particular "right."

"What is right depends on the situation," says the Rev. Dr. Joseph Fletcher, of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass.

This viewpoint is the working approach of the so-called "new morality" which is stirring keen debate today in American religious circles.

Some theologians defend it, insisting that it invokes greater, firmer personal responsibility than rigid rules. Others condemn it, claiming that it undermines God-given codes of conduct.

It is variously called "contextual morality" or "situation ethics."

Whether It Helps

It holds that every decision on whether an action is good or bad hinges, not on the act itself or on any law, but on whether it would help others in the context of the situation.

"No action is good or right in itself," Dr. Fletcher says. "It depends on whether it hurts or helps people, whether or not it serves love's purpose (understanding love to be personal concern) in the situation."

Objections are raised, however, that this tends to make each person's fallible reasoning the guide as to what actually would serve the board, long-range interest of others—and that such judgment often errs.

Morally Binding

The arguments swirl widely both in Protestantism and Roman Catholicism, in seminaries, church conferences and in troubled letters from laymen. Many misconstrue the new approach as an invitation to rank license.

However, Dr. Fletcher maintains, "the new morality is not a soft morality."

He points out that it does not abandon the old moral standards, but sees them only as "general principles" rather than inflexible rules.

Others' Well-Being

Christ's central teaching is "to love people, not principles," he writes in the Episcopal weekly, the Living Church. He says the well-being of others is the prime consideration—an end which takes precedence over any means or rules.

Sin occurs, he adds, when laws are put ahead of human welfare, when means are substituted for ends "when things (including rules) are loved and people are used."

Debating the matter with a Roman Catholic theologian, the Rev. Herbert McCabe, in the lay-edited Catholic journal, Commonweal, Dr. Fletcher argues that goodness is "what happens" in a human act, not the "act itself."

Adultery

For instance, he says, adultery is not wrong "in itself," but it is ordinarily wrong because the over-all emotional, legal and spiritual effects are "hurtful rather than helpful."

In some cases, however, he says that extramarital sex relationships, of genuinely mutual concern, may be virtuous, while sex between a married couple who hate each other is "living in sin."

Father McCabe, while rejecting the strictly legalistic position, maintains that there are "absolute moral demands" revealed for mankind's over-all good, and that this greater value may be subverted if judged only by limited situations.

In The Long Run

What is best for people "in their ultimate situation" may not be the best in the "obvious context," he says.

"A man is not only with the people he meets but with all men and he is part of a stage in human history."

For instance, he adds, white racists may contend that they are doing the best they can for the welfare of blacks in the "immediate situation," but the larger moral imperatives demand "a questioning of the situation."

U.S. Combat Dead: 1,750

Washington (AP) — The U.S. combat dead total in the Viet Nam war has reached 1,750, topping the battle fatalities in two previous wars in U.S. history.

The Viet Nam war toll from Jan. 1, 1961, through Monday tops the 1,733 Americans who fell in the Mexican War and the 385 who were killed in action in the Spanish-American War.

A total of 68 U.S. servicemen died in combat with the communists last week, the weekly report of the Pentagon showed Thursday.

The roster of wounded increased by 354 names, bringing the overall total since January 1961 to 8,337.

The missing decreased by nine to 140 and the number of known prisoners went up one to 26.

Balewa Death Report Denied

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria's military government officially denied Thursday reports published overseas that Lagos authorities had announced the death of former federal Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Information Director Cyprian Ekwensi said no announcement had been made on the fate of Balewa, who was kidnaped in the early hours of last Saturday's coup.

Associated Press Writer

Ordinarily, lying is considered wrong. But when it would save an innocent person's life, then a lie takes on a modified moral quality. As some see it, the general "wrong" becomes a particular "right."

"What is right depends on the situation," says the Rev. Dr. Joseph Fletcher, of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass.

This viewpoint is the working approach of the so-called "new morality" which is stirring keen debate today in American religious circles.

Some theologians defend it, insisting that it invokes greater, firmer personal responsibility than rigid rules. Others condemn it, claiming that it undermines God-given codes of conduct.

It is variously called "contextual morality" or "situation ethics."

Whether It Helps

It holds that every decision on whether an action is good or bad hinges, not on the act itself or on any law, but on whether it would help others in the context of the situation.

"No action is good or right in itself," Dr. Fletcher says. "It depends on whether it hurts or helps people, whether or not it serves love's purpose (understanding love to be personal concern) in the situation."

Objections are raised, however, that this tends to make each person's fallible reasoning the guide as to what actually would serve the board, long-range interest of others—and that such judgment often errs.

Morally Binding

The arguments swirl widely both in Protestantism and Roman Catholicism, in seminaries, church conferences and in troubled letters from laymen. Many misconstrue the new approach as an invitation to rank license.

He points out that it does not abandon the old moral standards, but sees them only as "general principles" rather than inflexible rules.

Others' Well-Being

Christ's central teaching is "to love people, not principles," he writes in the Episcopal weekly, the Living Church. He says the well-being of others is the prime consideration—an end which takes precedence over any means or rules.

Sin occurs, he adds, when laws are put ahead of human welfare, when means are substituted for ends "when things (including rules) are loved and people are used."

Debating the matter with a Roman Catholic theologian, the Rev. Herbert McCabe, in the lay-edited Catholic journal, Commonweal, Dr. Fletcher argues that goodness is "what happens" in a human act, not the "act itself."

Adultery

For instance, he says, adultery is not wrong "in itself," but it is ordinarily wrong because the over-all emotional, legal and spiritual effects are "hurtful rather than helpful."

In some cases, however, he says that extramarital sex relationships, of genuinely mutual concern, may be virtuous, while sex between a married couple who hate each other is "living in sin."

Father McCabe, while rejecting the strictly legalistic position, maintains that there are "absolute moral demands" revealed for mankind's over-all good, and that this greater value may be subverted if judged only by limited situations.

In The Long Run

What is best for people "in their ultimate situation" may not be the best in the "obvious context," he says.

"A man is not only with the people he meets but with all men and he is part of a stage in human history."

For instance, he adds, white racists may contend that they are doing the best they can for the welfare of blacks in the "immediate situation," but the larger moral imperatives demand "a questioning of the situation."

U.S. Combat Dead: 1,750

Washington (AP) — The U.S. combat dead total in the Viet Nam war has reached 1,750, topping the battle fatalities in two previous wars in U.S. history.

The Viet Nam war toll from Jan. 1, 1961, through Monday tops the 1,733 Americans who fell in the Mexican War and the 385 who were killed in action in the Spanish-American War.

A total of 68 U.S. servicemen died in combat with the communists last week, the weekly report of the Pentagon showed Thursday.

The roster of wounded increased by 354 names, bringing the overall total since January 1961 to 8,337.

The missing decreased by nine to 140 and the number of known prisoners went up one to 26.

Balewa Death Report Denied

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria's military government officially denied Thursday reports published overseas that Lagos authorities had announced the death of former federal Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Information Director Cyprian Ekwensi said no announcement had been made on the fate of Balewa, who was kidnaped in the early hours of last Saturday's coup.

Charter Unit Proposes Zoning Appeals Change

The City Charter Revision Committee has approved, by a vote of 11-2, an amendment to the charter which would eliminate City Council review of Board of Zoning Appeals decisions.

Thursday night's committee action brought to 25 the total number of proposed revisions which will be sent to the council for its decision on which issues will be presented to the voters on a special election ballot.

Planning and zoning subcommittee chairman Asa Christensen said the amendment would make the Board of Zoning Appeals the final city authority in granting or denying variance or waiver requests denied by the building inspection department, thus eliminating the current practice of council review.

Won't Cut Power

"This amendment will not take away power from the council nor in any way interfere with council prerogatives to change zoning by ordinance or application, but will remove a burden from the council and eliminate petty time wasting procedures," Christensen said.

An applicant for a variance would appeal the board's decision in district court or could appeal to the council for a change in the zoning ordinance, he explained.

Under the proposal, the mayor would appoint the five member board with council approval. "If the council confirms the appointments, that should indicate the council's confidence in the board's professional ability," Christensen said.

Informal Poll

He noted that an informal poll showed that two members of the present board want to retain the present system, while three favor the amendment; four council members prefer to hold the power of review whereas three want the council step in the procedure eliminated.

All former mayors but one want to see the system changed, he said.

The committee also approved four proposed revisions recommended by the public works subcommittee.

Change Wording

Three change language in the present charter, bringing those sections affected up to date with the full time mayor form of government, the other would allow the mayor flexibility in determining the make-up of the Capital Improvements Advisory Committee.

The committee voted to reconsider a proposal approved Tuesday which would give the council authority to establish qualifications of city department heads by ordinance.

The proposal was resubmitted to the personnel subcommittee for further study after a League of Women Voters representative argued that the council's power in that area is already written into the charter-"by implication."

Chairman Richard Hansen announced that an all-faiths group of Lincoln ministers would present next Thursday a proposal that a human rights commission be created with charter sanction.

Newsman Poetry Award Winner

New York (UPI) — Edsel Ford, a Fort Smith, Ark., newspaperman, was awarded the $3,500 Poetry Society of America's Castagnola Award Thursday for a projected series of sonnets.

The nation's richest poetry prize for a work in progress was announced at the society's annual dinner. Ford, 36, is writing a volume of sonnets that will trace Dantean characters out of "The Divine Comedy" to their American counterparts in the Ozarks.

Ford was born on a cotton farm in Eva, Ala. A lifetime interest in poetry led to his composition of "A Landscape for Dante," a major work in sonnet form. He is no relation to the automotive Fords of Detroit.

THIRD TIME NO CHARM

Greenville, Miss. (AP) — A new radar device set up in a speed zone quickly caught three persons.

The first was Mayor Pat Dunne. He paid a $17.50 fine and with the comment that "the only way to avoid fines is not to speed."

The second person nabbed was a policewoman.

The third was a disc jockey. He went directly to his radio station and broadcast the location of the speed zone to other drivers.

Boettcher Gives Bandit A Bad Time

Fremont (AP) — A masked gunman robbed Hutchinson's Service Station of about $110 Thursday, but not until after the attendant on duty, Bernard Boettcher, gave him a bad time of it.

Police Chief Ed Clinchard said Boettcher wrestled with the gunman and when told to go near a closet, Boettcher threw a hammer at the man, missing him. Boettcher suffered a cut hand after hitting the gunsight.

Clinchard said Boettcher pursued the gunman after he had rifled the cash register and fled but lost him.

Tremor Near Athens

Athens, Greece (AP) — An earth tremor of moderate strength shook the Sporades Islands. The Athens Seismological Institute said the epicenter of the quake was 75 miles northeast of Athens in the vicinity of Skopelos Island in the northern Aegean Sea. National police said they had no reports of damage or casualties.

Cooperation Is Key

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It is hoped that counties take to heart the advice of Gov. Frank Morrison to remain in their respective educational service units for at least one year. The service units are organizations of counties put by the last Legislature into unified groups for the purpose of promoting special educational services. The units have the power to make a tax levy of up to one mill against property within their boundaries.

Understanding The Plan

Obviously, anything that tends to unify a broad educational interest group is viewed with skepticism by those who are opposed to school redistricting. They see such a combining as the basis of reorganization and, therefore, want no part of it. Counties can elect to remain out of the units by vote of the people and petition movements are underway in many counties to exercise this right. The governor reports that there is a lot of misunderstanding about the educational service unit program. It has nothing to do with reorganization, he correctly pointed out.

"The law," he noted, "is purely a tool by which residents of an area can pool their resources to provide some special education programs which otherwise could not be afforded." The governor is absolutely right and it is difficult to see how the program could be misunderstood. The status and responsibility of individual school districts within the educational service unit remain unchanged.

The unit, however, could vote to do a number of things that the individual districts simply cannot do for financial reasons. The unit, for instance, might engage the services of a guidance counselor who could visit all the schools in the unit and provide a service to students that would otherwise be unavailable.

The service unit could do the same with professional people in many areas of educational concern such as physical education, vocational education, education of the gifted and handicapped, etc. It could also engage in planning work and offer consulting services in the area of curriculum. These and many more things it could do because of the broad base of economic support it commands. It seems like such a simple thing that no one could fail to understand it. One hundred people with $10 each spending their money individually could not build a building but if they all put their money together they could put up a $10,000 building which they all could use.

A few thousand taxpayers in a single school district may not be able to afford anything but the bare essentials of an educational system but if they combined with a number of other districts, they could put their funds together and provide some of the extras. As to need, this can be demonstrated by the fact that what many might consider today to be extras are essentials in the eyes of others. People in districts such as Lincoln's would never admit that it was an "extra" or a "luxury" to have psychiatric assistance in the school system. Guidance is looked upon as a vital service as are the advantages of such things as science laboratories and good libraries. The latter two things could be made available to many smaller districts that now do not have them, through the auspices of an educational service unit.

When we talk about the essentials of education, we tend to think of education as it existed a quarter of a century ago. But amazing things have happened in the last 25 years and the systems of that day are totally outmoded in these times. The elementary school library was a rarity 25 years ago but is now almost standard.

Twenty-five years ago one hardly knew what guidance was as students simply took in high school the universal offerings and an elective or two that appealed to them. Twenty-five years ago the particularly bright or the particularly dull student was given no thought one way or another. Classes offered a curriculum that struck a good average and some children found them very hard and some found them very easy.

The 25-Year Change

Science as we know it today was not even in the imagination of people 25 years ago. What science there was in the schools included limited textbook work at a very rudimentary level and laboratories were either non-existent or poorly equipped. Some of the smaller schools in Nebraska have not advanced much from the times of 25 years ago because they have been unable to afford the advances. A news story this week tells of Nebraska schools that will lose some $2 million in federal aid funds this school year because they cannot afford to implement the programs for which the federal help is available.

The educational service units are the means by which this situation could be helped in a small way. They do not represent a sufficient effort to solve the entire problem but they would help. Counties who need this help but refuse it should remember that they are denying their children a vital need.

A Community's Face

Importance to a community of its access routes to the Interstate Highway has been stressed, and appropriately so, by State Engineer John Hossack. He noted that by late this year motorists will be able to drive the Interstate in Nebraska from Omaha to North Platte.

With traffic on the route increasing, he said, all adjoining communities must give close attention to the beautification of "the face of your city." Such roads have always been the face of their various communities and generally they have not been a very attractive face.

Communities have had difficulty in establishing uses along major traffic routes that did credit to their area. Such areas have generally been devoted to business and industry and in business and industry of the past there has not been much concern over physical appearances.

All these things, however, are changing. The mobility of the American people is making it more important for communities to make a favorable first impression on newcomers or visitors. At the same time, business and industry are much more concerned today with their physical appearance than they were a few short years ago.

Thus, communities have both a greater potential and more possibility of fulfilling it than they have ever had before. The day is very close, if not already here, when the community that treats its access routes with indifference will be marked as a backward community. Mr. Hossack's advice is timely and most appropriate.

The Nigerian Problem

It is good once in a while to take a look at another country's problem and that brings up Great Britain and its former colony, Nigeria.

Nigeria, which is on the west coast of Africa and contains more than 300,000 square miles of swamp, highland and sluggish rivers, all operating in the range of equatorial climate, is an excellent example of historic trouble, bloodshed and primitiveness. It has any number of native tribes and any number of primitive religions, plus a heavy population of Muslims in the north and Christians in the South. All fight each other with a will, and at the drop of the hat. The country mainly produces palm oil which it exports at a rather good profit. But it used to support the slave trade, getting its supply by raiding neighboring tribes, picking up outlaws and adding in a scattering of relatives who happened to be at hand.

This brought in the British who first attempted to stop the trade by stopping their own traders. This led to establishing a beachhead to stop other traders and finally to taking over the whole land during one of the country's interminable local wars. That made it a British colony in 1861. Thereafter, Nigeria mostly dropped out of world print though not out of domestic trouble.

After World War II Great Britain divested itself of colonial rule, invested money for schools and set Nigeria to governing itself. A few weeks ago the noble experiment blew up when elements of the army assassinated Chief Akintola, premier of the western region, shortly after assassinating Sir Ahmadu Bello, Sardauna of the northern region. He was said to have been too lordly and autocratic to suit the non-peace-loving Nigerians. So history has repeated itself again and we do not know where it will end.

Not Too Dismayed

We may be the No. 1 nation in the western society, but now it seems certain that we haven't the best dressed No. 1 man.

The British magazine, Tailor and Cutter, a London style publication, has viewed Lyndon B. Johnson from top to toe and from left to right. After a thoughtful pause it has come up with its verdict. His costumes add up to a "fat, round nothing."

This means that while Mr. Johnson might have looked good enough among the defenders of the Alamo, his best lacks a good deal among the international coutiers. This is a real blow to the state of Texas which has rounded up almost all the money in the world, nearly all the climate and most of the land in our great Southwest. It has shouldered the effete East out of the national presidency. But it is flunking in how the well dressed man wears his clothes.

Well, not even Texas can win everything.

But in reply we can say that our nation can still survive without the endorsement of the tailors guild. And we can't fault the man too much if he keeps our prosperity bright and shiny, if he can figure his way out of Viet Nam and if he can keep more people happy than unhappy. In fact, if he can do those things we do not really care if he marches around stark naked, which any Texan is apt to do if it occurs to him.

No president is totally perfect. We recall the collar industry was terribly put out with Herbert Hoover, who never failed to wear high, outdated collars. The collar people felt it made him look like Uncle Henry dressed up long ago for high school graduation.

And there were the hat people who always raised a fuss about John F. Kennedy who went around hatless most of the time which, they felt, was a form of operating in restraint of trade and, therefore, in violation of the Clayton Act.

Growing Talk Of Neutralization

WASHINGTON — Most important and secret peace formula so far proposed in the backstage Viet Nam peace maneuvering is that submitted to Moscow calling for neutralization of the entire Indo-Chinese peninsula under the International Control Commission.

Net result would be to increase Russian influence in Southeast Asia at the expense of Chinese influence. This the United States much prefers.

Actually, this proposal has been made by the British, but with American willingness to withdraw from Viet Nam, with the International Control Commission then taking over, not only in South Viet Nam but Laos and Cambodia, to keep the entire area neutral. The commission would also take jursidiction in North Viet Nam.

The International Control Commission was created under the Geneva Treaty of 1954 which arranged for French withdrawal. Its members are India, Canada and Poland. The Russians would have indirect representation through Poland, the United States and Britain would have some influence through Canada.

The commission would have to be given more power and some kind of a police force to enforce neutrality.

So far no reply from the Russians. None was really expected until sometime after Shelepin returned from his trip to Hanoi, possibly not until after British Prime Minister Harold Wilson goes to Moscow Feb. 21-24.

Chief reason Secretary of State Rusk went to Saigon was to persuade Premier Ky to take a deep breath and not knock over the peace talks—at least not publicly. Ky, who has brazenly admitted that his hero is Adolf Hitler, has been popping like a Mexican jumping bean ever since the Johnson peace offensive got going.

As recently revealed by Clayton Fritchey, Ky has told Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge repeatedly that he would not go along with peace talks, that he is not ready to sit down at the conference table, and that the United States cannot commit the government of South Viet Nam to peace.

Chief reason Ky is so jittery is that his government controls only about 700 villages out of 2,600 in South Viet Nam, in other words about one-third of the territory. He isn't strong enough to go to the conference table, and he wouldn't have the ghost of a chance of survival if American troops pulled out.

New Faces Show In Official Family

WASHINGTON — The long standing logjam in bringing new faces and new blood into the Johnson administration is finally being broken. Appointment of the first Negro cabinet member, a fresh policy-maker for Latin-American affairs and a new Peace Corps director are only the beginning to an overdue infusion into key places.

A master tactician, President Johnson is using the announcement of major appointments to suggest fresh vigor in his administration and to gather momentum for an effort to dominate the new session of Congress as he did the last. This is psychologically sound and very necessary.

Hangovers from the Kennedy regime loyally continue to serve. But big government insatiably devours both men and ideas.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has said that five years is about the most that a top presidential appointee should serve. The President's two top cabinet officers, McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, are starting their sixth year in their exhausting posts, and their accumulated liabilities are showing.

It was natural that the President should have a more difficult time than his predecessor attracting new talent into the federal government. President Kennedy had a wide acquaintance among intellectuals and students of public problems. He also had the states for nomination and election which gave him a backlog of talented politicians.

Johnson's interests were far narrower and he has yet to comb the highways and byways of any state but his own. He is only now acquiring a broad acquaintance outside it.

Yet no cabinet appointment in decades has excelled that of John Gardner as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. The President initiated it personally, as he did that of Arthur Goldberg to the United Nations, another brilliant selection.

But the sub-cabinet posts on which so much depends are still handled by Civil Service Commissioner John Macy, and too often they wear the livery of the organizationman. This may mean skill in execution but a shortage of ideas and drive toward their fulfillment.

By and large, the present Democratic stewards go back a long way in some capacity or other. Eight of 11 cabinet members were Kennedy choices. There is little youth showing in contrast to the present complexion of Congress, where the average age is dropping rapidly.

The most energetic, even frenetic, official here next to the President himself is still Averell Harriman, at 75, the roving ambassador prominent in the Viet Nam peace offensive. He and United Nations Ambassador Goldberg seem to be the best hope for moderation in that difficult area, and both are persevering infighters with wide knowledge of rulers and their ways.

As the White House begins to put the Johnson brand on the administration in its important top layers, much attention is being paid to the Texans already chosen as personal aides.

Jack Lough's "Loughdown" column in the Albion News this week was short and very much to the point.

"Mr. Loughdown is down low with the flu."

Mrs. Lough wasn't doing so well herself. She blamed the whole thing on a chicken — "foul play," she called it. She bit into a piece of fried chicken with a little too much enthusiasm and managed to break a front tooth cap in two diagonally.

Her husband nicknamed her "Fang" until the dental damage was repaired.

Norris Alfred describes his 16 months away from the Polk Progress as either the shortest retirement or the longest vacation on record. Whichever it was, or a combination, he is glad to be back on the job again. He traveled east and he traveled west, and in the final analysis, home seemed best.

Loafing, he wrote, which often appears to be a greener pasture sometimes proves, in crossing the fence, to be only a gray wasteland. Another friend of his also decided on retirement, "sold out and spent his days trimming, painting building and cleaning until he had one of the neatest homes in Polk. then, last December 10, we saw him washing his car with the garden hose and realized retirement was undermining his reason, too. It was raining at the time."

All teacup-huggling, and luncheon - plate - knee - balancing males will appreciate this story. Henry Trysla related it in the Dakota County Star . . .

A South Sioux City man, attending a party where the food was served in the handy buffet style, needed both hands to manage food plate and coffee. He shoved the silverware into his suit pocket.

The following Sunday, he was making ready for church, reached into the pocket of his good suit and pulled forth a silver spoon. He checked hurriedly by telephone with his hosts to see if they were missing said spoon. They were.

"If anyone would be interested in buying or renting either or both a wall-to-wall carpeted dog-house or a three sided dog-house — Contact Mr. Schnier."

Eldena Sapp, writing in the Osceola Record, had noticed the same interesting news item we did. It might have been better, she admitted, if she had seen it in December rather than January. But she is glad she didn't. The discussion itself indicates why. "Health authorities have figured out you would have to walk a mile to work off the energy furnished by one caramel. The fuel you'd require to propel you to the top of the Washington Monument would be supplied by one doughnut. At the same rate, you could walk off a banana split in seven miles and a small candy bar in five. Anyone care to join me in a cross-country walk?"

The Upkeep

Lincoln, Neb.

Topics of tax and tuition explosion enfolding Nebraska universities are not of great encouragement to tomorrow's youth, our leaders of the future. In the past it has always been a millstone for many deserving young people to carry the financial burden even with the help of not too rich parents. Now as costs shoot upward, many students will be unable to go on or to finish what they have started.

This leads one to believe that it is amiss for the university to take on the heavy responsibility of upkeep for the chancellor's new $90,000 home. It is said that the house was bought by private funds but it has long been known that it isn't the original price that breaks the camel's back but the all-time upkeep which future generations are going to have to "cough up" and without getting any good out of it, either.

Socialist Brand

Omaha, Neb.

Last-ditch opponents of adequate health care for retired persons under Social Security are stretching the definition of socialized medicine almost beyond recognition. A profession is not socialized merely by accepting in payment money which has passed through government hands some time previously.

If it were, then medicine was socialized by the Kerr-Mills Act, which was hailed by medicare foes. By the same reasoning, the entire economy was socialized when the original Social Security Act was passed 30 years ago. Similarly, it would be socialism every time a serviceman, postman, policeman, judge or any other government employe, present or retired, paid for anything. Shoe stores would be socialized by selling little old ladies tennis shoes.

Most medicare opponents concede, when pressed, that medicare is not socialized medicine, but they fear it may be "a foot in the door." More likely, socialized medicine would arise from failure to make the present system work.

Branding as socialist anything that's any good for anybody makes words meaningless and gives the socialists undeserved credit.

Liquor By Drink

Kearney, Neb.

"Economic boost" is the reason spokesmen from the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce give for their request for liquor by the drink. Yes, it surely increases the cash register receipts for those who sell. But with the tinkle of the cash come more spilled blood, more poverty, more broken hearts, more crime, more corruption of officials, more broken homes and more taxes.

"Majesty of the law" and "regulation" were themes of applicants for a bottle club (liquor by the drink) in a "nice place" in our town a year ago. The statistics at the close of the year disclosed a definite high percentage of increased accidents, fatalities, crime and even a murder and a suicide. This is the "sound" accompanying the cash register's tinkle for the sale of alcohol. Somehow, the proponents always fail to picture their finished product.

What noble aspirations for Chambers of Commerce!

Guidance Classes

Lincoln, Neb.

I would be most interested in hearing comment in this column concerning the discontinuance of 9th grade guidance classes in Lincoln. Perhaps it is true that some children are so worldly wise and well informed that they need no guidance classes. Unhappily, mine isn't one of these. He needs all the expert information he can get regarding his future high school years, choices of occupation, etc., and for that matter, class discussion concerning acceptable rules of conduct, etc.

It seems to me that 9th grade students need these benefits now more than at any other time of their school lives.

While I think of it, exactly why were these classes discontinued? I may want to complain to someone in person!

The status and responsibility of individual school districts within the educational service unit remain unchanged.

The unit, however, could vote to do a number of things that the individual districts simply cannot do for financial reasons. The unit, for instance, might engage the services of a guidance counselor who could visit all the schools in the unit and provide a service to students that would otherwise be unavailable.

The service unit could do the same with professional people in many areas of educational concern such as physical education, vocational education, education of the gifted and handicapped, etc. It could also engage in planning work and offer consulting services in the area of curriculum. These and many more things it could do because of the broad base of economic support it commands. It seems like such a simple thing that no one could fail to understand it. One hundred people with $10 each spending their money individually could not build a building but if they all put their money together they could put up a $10,000 building which they all could use.

A few thousand taxpayers in a single school district may not be able to afford anything but the bare essentials of an educational system but if they combined with a number of other districts, they could put their funds together and provide some of the extras. As to need, this can be demonstrated by the fact that what many might consider today to be extras are essentials in the eyes of others. People in districts such as Lincoln's would never admit that it was an "extra" or a "luxury" to have psychiatric assistance in the school system. Guidance is looked upon as a vital service as are the advantages of such things as science laboratories and good libraries. The latter two things could be made available to many smaller districts that now do not have them, through the auspices of an educational service unit.

When we talk about the essentials of education, we tend to think of education as it existed a quarter of a century ago. But amazing things have happened in the last 25 years and the systems of that day are totally outmoded in these times. The elementary school library was a rarity 25 years ago but is now almost standard.

Twenty-five years ago one hardly knew what guidance was as students simply took in high school the universal offerings and an elective or two that appealed to them. Twenty-five years ago the particularly bright or the particularly dull student was given no thought one way or another. Classes offered a curriculum that struck a good average and some children found them very hard and some found them very easy.

The 25-Year Change

Science as we know it today was not even in the imagination of people 25 years ago. What science there was in the schools included limited textbook work at a very rudimentary level and laboratories were either non-existent or poorly equipped. Some of the smaller schools in Nebraska have not advanced much from the times of 25 years ago because they have been unable to afford the advances. A news story this week tells of Nebraska schools that will lose some $2 million in federal aid funds this school year because they cannot afford to implement the programs for which the federal help is available.

The educational service units are the means by which this situation could be helped in a small way. They do not represent a sufficient effort to solve the entire problem but they would help. Counties who need this help but refuse it should remember that they are denying their children a vital need.

A Community's Face

Importance to a cummunity of its access routes to the Interstate Highway has been stressed, and appropriately so, by State Engineer John Hossack. He noted that by late this year motorists will be able to drive the Interstate in Nebraska from Omaha to North Platte.

With traffic on the route increasing, he said, all adjoining communities must give close attention to the beautification of "the face of your city." Such roads have always been the face of their various communities and generally they have not been a very attractive face.

Communities have had difficulty in establishing uses along major traffic routes that did credit to their area. Such areas have generally been devoted to business and industry and in business and industry of the past there has not been much concern over physical appearances.

All these things, however, are changing. The mobility of the American people is making it more important for communities to make a favorable first impression on newcomers or visitors. At the same time, business and industry are much more concerned today with their physical appearance than they were a few short years ago.

Thus, communities have both a greater potential and more possibility of fulfilling it than they have ever had before. The day is very close, if not already here, when the community that treats its access routes with indifference will be marked as a backward community. Mr. Hossack's advice is timely and most appropriate.

The Nigerian Problem

It is good once in a while to take a look at another country's problem and that brings up Great Britain and its former colony, Nigeria.

Nigeria, which is on the west coast of Africa and contains more than 300,000 square miles of swamp, highland and sluggish rivers, all operating in the range of equatorial climate, is an excellent example of historic trouble, bloodshed and primitiveness. It has any number of native tribes and any number of primitive religions, plus a heavy population of Muslims in the north and Christians in the South. All fight each other with a will, and at the drop of the hat. The country mainly produces palm oil which it exports at a rather good profit. But it used to support the slave trade, getting its supply by raiding neighboring tribes, picking up outlaws and adding in a scattering of relatives who happened to be at hand.

This brought in the British who first attempted to stop the trade by stopping their own traders. This led to establishing a beachhead to stop other traders and finally to taking over the whole land during one of the country's interminable local wars. That made it a British colony in 1861. Thereafter, Nigeria mostly dropped out of world print though not out of domestic trouble.

After World War II Great Britain divested itself of colonial rule, invested money for schools and set Nigeria to governing itself. A few weeks ago the noble experiment blew up when elements of the army assassinated Chief Akintola, premier of the western region, shortly after assassinating Sir Ahmadu Bello, Sardauna of the northern region. He was said to have been too lordly and autocratic to suit the non-peace-loving Nigerians. So history has repeated itself again and we do not know where it will end.

Not Too Dismayed

We may be the No. 1 nation in the western society, but now it seems certain that we haven't the best dressed No. 1 man.

The British magazine, Tailor and Cutter, a London style publication, has viewed Lyndon B. Johnson from top to toe and from left to right. After a thoughtful pause it has come up with its verdict. His costumes add up to a "fat, round nothing."

This means that while Mr. Johnson might have looked good enough among the defenders of the Alamo, his best lacks a good deal among the international coutiers. This is a real blow to the state of Texas which has rounded up almost all the money in the world, nearly all the climate and most of the land in our great Southwest. It has shouldered the effete East out of the national presidency. But it is flunking in how the well dressed man wears his clothes.

Well, not even Texas can win everything.

But in reply we can say that our nation can still survive without the endorsement of the tailors guild. And we can't fault the man too much if he keeps our prosperity bright and shiny, if he can figure his way out of Viet Nam and if he can keep more people happy than unhappy. In fact, if he can do those things we do not really care if he marches around stark naked, which any Texan is apt to do if it occurs to him.

No president is totally perfect. We recall the collar industry was terribly put out with Herbert Hoover, who never failed to wear high, outdated collars. The collar people felt it made him look like Uncle Henry dressed up long ago for high school graduation.

And there were the hat people who always raised a fuss about John F. Kennedy who went around hatless most of the time which, they felt, was a form of operating in restraint of trade and, therefore, in violation of the Clayton Act.

Growing Talk Of Neutralization

WASHINGTON — Most important and secret peace formula so far proposed in the backstage Viet Nam peace maneuvering is that submitted to Moscow calling for neutralization of the entire Indo-Chinese peninsula under the International Control Commission.

Net result would be to increase Russian influence in Southeast Asia at the expense of Chinese influence. This the United States much prefers.

Actually, this proposal has been made by the British, but with American willingness to withdraw from Viet Nam, with the International Control Commission then taking over, not only in South Viet Nam but Laos and Cambodia, to keep the entire area neutral. The commission would also take jursidiction in North Viet Nam.

The International Control Commission was created under the Geneva Treaty of 1954 which arranged for French withdrawal. Its members are India, Canada and Poland. The Russians would have indirect representation through Poland, the United States and Britain would have some influence through Canada.

The commission would have to be given more power and some kind of a police force to enforce neutrality.

So far no reply from the Russians. None was really expected until sometime after Shelepin returned from his trip to Hanoi, possibly not until after British Prime Minister Harold Wilson goes to Moscow Feb. 21-24.

Chief reason Secretary of State Rusk went to Saigon was to persuade Premier Ky to take a deep breath and not knock over the peace talks—at least not publicly. Ky, who has brazenly admitted that his hero is Adolf Hitler, has been popping like a Mexican jumping bean ever since the Johnson peace offensive got going.

As recently revealed by Clayton Fritchey, Ky has told Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge repeatedly that he would not go along with peace talks, that he is not ready to sit down at the conference table, and that the United States cannot commit the government of South Viet Nam to peace.

Chief reason Ky is so jittery is that his government controls only about 700 villages out of 2,600 in South Viet Nam, in other words about one-third of the territory. He isn't strong enough to go to the conference table, and he wouldn't have the ghost of a chance of survival if American troops pulled out.

New Faces Show In Official Family

WASHINGTON — The long standing logjam in bringing new faces and new blood into the Johnson administration is finally being broken. Appointment of the first Negro cabinet member, a fresh policy-maker for Latin-American affairs and a new Peace Corps director are only the beginning to an overdue infusion into key places.

A master tactician, President Johnson is using the announcement of major appointments to suggest fresh vigor in his administration and to gather momentum for an effort to dominate the new session of Congress as he did the last. This is psychologically sound and very necessary.

Hangovers from the Kennedy regime loyally continue to serve. But big government insatiably devours both men and ideas.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has said that five years is about the most that a top presidential appointee should serve. The President's two top cabinet officers, McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, are starting their sixth year in their exhausting posts, and their accumulated liabilities are showing.

It was natural that the President should have a more difficult time than his predecessor attracting new talent into the federal government. President Kennedy had a wide acquaintance among intellectuals and students of public problems. He also had the states for nomination and election which gave him a backlog of talented politicians.

Johnson's interests were far narrower and he has yet to comb the highways and byways of any state but his own. He is only now acquiring a broad acquaintance outside it.

Yet no cabinet appointment in decades has excelled that of John Gardner as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. The President initiated it personally, as he did that of Arthur Goldberg to the United Nations, another brilliant selection.

But the sub-cabinet posts on which so much depends are still handled by Civil Service Commissioner John Macy, and too often they wear the livery of the organizationman. This may mean skill in execution but a shortage of ideas and drive toward their fulfillment.

By and large, the present Democratic stewards go back a long way in some capacity or other. Eight of 11 cabinet members were Kennedy choices. There is little youth showing in contrast to the present complexion of Congress, where the average age is dropping rapidly.

The most energetic, even frenetic, official here next to the President himself is still Averell Harriman, at 75, the roving ambassador prominent in the Viet Nam peace offensive. He and United Nations Ambassador Goldberg seem to be the best hope for moderation in that difficult area, and both are persevering infighters with wide knowledge of rulers and their ways.

As the White House begins to put the Johnson brand on the administration in its important top layers, much attention is being paid to the Texans already chosen as personal aides.

Backyard Pastures Greenest

Mrs. Lough wasn't doing so well herself. She blamed the whole thing on a chicken — "foul play," she called it. She bit into a piece of fried chicken with a little too much enthusiasm and managed to break a front tooth cap in two diagonally.

Norris Alfred describes his 16 months away from the Polk Progress as either the shortest retirement or the longest vacation on record. Whichever it was, or a combination, he is glad to be back on the job again. He traveled east and he traveled west, and in the final analysis, home seemed best.

Loafing, he wrote, which often appears to be a greener pasture sometimes proves, in crossing the fence, to be only a gray wasteland. Another friend of his also decided on retirement, "sold out and spent his days trimming, painting building and cleaning until he had one of the neatest homes in Polk. then, last December 10, we saw him washing his car with the garden hose and realized retirement was undermining his reason, too. It was raining at the time."

Eldena Sapp, writing in the Osceola Record, had noticed the same interesting news item we did. It might have been better, she admitted, if she had seen it in December rather than January. But she is glad she didn't. The discussion itself indicates why. "Health authorities have figured out you would have to walk a mile to work off the energy furnished by one caramel. The fuel you'd require to propel you to the top of the Washington Monument would be supplied by one doughnut. At the same rate, you could walk off a banana split in seven miles and a small candy bar in five. Anyone care to join me in a cross-country walk?"

The Upkeep

Lincoln, Neb.

Topics of tax and tuition explosion enfolding Nebraska universities are not of great encouragement to tomorrow's youth, our leaders of the future. In the past it has always been a millstone for many deserving young people to carry the financial burden even with the help of not too rich parents. Now as costs shoot upward, many students will be unable to go on or to finish what they have started.

This leads one to believe that it is amiss for the university to take on the heavy responsibility of upkeep for the chancellor's new $90,000 home. It is said that the house was bought by private funds but it has long been known that it isn't the original price that breaks the camel's back but the all-time upkeep which future generations are going to have to "cough up" and without getting any good out of it, either.

Socialist Brand

Omaha, Neb.

Last-ditch opponents of adequate health care for retired persons under Social Security are stretching the definition of socialized medicine almost beyond recognition. A profession is not socialized merely by accepting in payment money which has passed through government hands some time previously.

If it were, then medicine was socialized by the Kerr-Mills Act, which was hailed by medicare foes. By the same reasoning, the entire economy was socialized when the original Social Security Act was passed 30 years ago. Similarly, it would be socialism every time a serviceman, postman, policeman, judge or any other government employe, present or retired, paid for anything. Shoe stores would be socialized by selling little old ladies tennis shoes.

Most medicare opponents concede, when pressed, that medicare is not socialized medicine, but they fear it may be "a foot in the door." More likely, socialized medicine would arise from failure to make the present system work.

Branding as socialist anything that's any good for anybody makes words meaningless and gives the socialists undeserved credit.

Liquor By Drink

Kearney, Neb.

"Economic boost" is the reason spokesmen from the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce give for their request for liquor by the drink. Yes, it surely increases the cash register receipts for those who sell. But with the tinkle of the cash come more spilled blood, more poverty, more broken hearts, more crime, more corruption of officials, more broken homes and more taxes.

"Majesty of the law" and "regulation" were themes of applicants for a bottle club (liquor by the drink) in a "nice place" in our town a year ago. The statistics at the close of the year disclosed a definite high percentage of increased accidents, fatalities, crime and even a murder and a suicide. This is the "sound" accompanying the cash register's tinkle for the sale of alcohol. Somehow, the proponents always fail to picture their finished product.

What noble aspirations for Chambers of Commerce!

Guidance Classes

Lincoln, Neb.

I would be most interested in hearing comment in this column concerning the discontinuance of 9th grade guidance classes in Lincoln. Perhaps it is true that some children are so worldly wise and well informed that they need no guidance classes. Unhappily, mine isn't one of these. He needs all the expert information he can get regarding his future high school years, choices of occupation, etc., and for that matter, class discussion concerning acceptable rules of conduct, etc.

It seems to me that 9th grade students need these benefits now more than at any other time of their school lives.

While I think of it, exactly why were these classes discontinued? I may want to complain to someone in person!

Nelson Construction Has Apparent Low Bid On Pyrtle School Work

Dwight E. Nelson Construction Co. submitted the apparent low bid here Thursday for the general contract of the proposed ten-room addition to Ruth Pyrtle School at 721 Cottonwood Drive.

All bids, were submitted by Lincoln firms.

Nelson's base bid, with a promised completion date of Sept. 1, amounted to $:10,960. Bids on alternates were $1,395 for book shelving and $340 for bulletin boards from the Nelson company.

Schools Supt. Steven Watkins also declared Wentz Heating and Air Conditioning Co. to have the apparent low bid for mechanical work, at $52,133. The Wentz bid for air conditioning the entire building amounted to $12,925.

If the apparent low bids are accepted by the Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday, the total cost of the addition and remodeling would be some $9,000 below architect George Unthank's $208,442 estimate.

The $199,228 low bid total of the 11,766 square foot addition and remodeling of mechanical systems and library in the original Ruth Pyrtle building would result in a $14 86 cent per square foot for the entire school, according to Dr. Watkins.

Seven Classrooms

The addition includes seven classrooms, one kindergarten room, a supply room, rest rooms and teachers' lounge. The elementary school is being air-conditioned to be used for summer school.

Six other general contract bids were received from M. W. Anderson Construction Co. with a base bid of $120,000; Beall Construction Co., $123,456; Broer Construction Co., $120,975; Judds Brothers Construction Co., $125,670; George Cook Construction Co., $118,352; and Les Lindburg Construction Co., $122,972.

The schools received six other bids on the electrical contract, including ABC Electric Co., $24,000; Action Electric, $23,472; Energy Enterprises Corp., $23,865; and Brite-Way Electric, $20,935.

City-County Building Jail To Be Up-To-Date Center

The jail in the new city-county building will be modeled after the most modern short-term penal centers in the country, the League of Women voters was told Thursday.

Taking part in a league-sponsored panel discussion on the building were City Councilman Lloyd Hinkley, County Commissioner William Grossman and architects Larry Enersen and F. C. Vierk.

Construction of the $5 million, four-level structure is expected to begin late this year at 10th and J. Enersen said it is hoped bids can be taken during the summer.

The architects said the 113-inmate jail will not contain windows but will have proper heating and ventilation. It will be located in the basement level of the structure and will have separate quarters for men, women and juvenile prisoners.

An elevator will take inmates directly to third floor courtrooms and a 9th St. drive-in area will be constructed so that prisoners can be brought to the jail by automobile.

Panel members pointed out that under a tentative operation plan, the city will operate the jail and cafeteria, the county will collect all taxes and receive all funds and there will be a joint mailing room, switchboard, printing department and maintenance operation.

Grossman noted that there are no formal plans for the building as yet and "there will be more changes."

City-County Building Jail To Be Up-To-Date Center

The jail in the new city-county building will be modeled after the most modern short-term penal centers in the country, the League of Women voters was told Thursday.

Taking part in a league-sponsored panel discussion on the building were City Councilman Lloyd Hinkley, County Commissioner William Grossman and architects Larry Enersen and F. C. Vierk.

Construction of the $5 million, four-level structure is expected to begin late this year at 10th and J. Enersen said it is hoped bids can be taken during the summer.

The architects said the 113-inmate jail will not contain windows but will have proper heating and ventilation. It will be located in the basement level of the structure and will have separate quarters for men, women and juvenile prisoners.

An elevator will take inmates directly to third floor courtrooms and a 9th St. drive-in area will be constructed so that prisoners can be brought to the jail by automobile.

Panel members pointed out that under a tentative operation plan, the city will operate the jail and cafeteria, the county will collect all taxes and receive all funds and there will be a joint mailing room, switchboard, printing department and maintenance operation.

Grossman noted that there are no formal plans for the building as yet and "there will be more changes."

Officers named in Mrs. Crable's complaint had included Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp; Jefferson County Sheriff Frank Knocke, and Gage County Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr.

Italian Designers' Fashion Advice: Slim Waistlines

Rome (AP)—Slim waistlines for men is the word Thursday from Italian designers of men's wear, the first to have courage to try something new.

The continental look launched here years ago was deserted for wider trouser legs, wider lapels and jackets that fit to manly chests and then flare out a bit.

Three-button jackets shared equal billing with double-breasted ones. Jacket vents were non-existent or limited to the side seams.

Nonstop Chicago Flights 'Possible'

. . . UNITED MAY ACT

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Leading officials of United Air Lines said Thursday they will again recommend to United's scheduling committee in Chicago that the feasibility of a nonstop Lincoln-Chicago flight be studied.

The promise came after Lincoln aviation leaders declared that "United owes Lincoln the chance to try and establish nonstop Chicago service."

"The money United takes out of here each year justifies it," said former Lincoln Airport Authority member and chairman Leo Beck.

City Officials

Meeting with the airline officials were members of the Airport Authority, Lincoln Chamber of Commerce aviation committee and other city officials.

Representing United were Alexander C. Northrop, special assistant to the chairman, L. Ellsworth Perry, regional sales manager, D. E. Nesper, regional scheduling manager, D. S. Fowler, regional customer services manager, Clyde Sharrar, Omaha district sales manager and Jack Radican, customer services manager for Lincoln.

The meeting was arranged primarily to discuss United's future service plans for Lincoln and the question of whether the airlines is trying to scuttle its operation here.

Accused

A letter from current authority chairman Fred Eiche to United president G. E. Keck accused the airlines of "creeping deterioration" of its Lincoln service and asked if it were United's intention to downgrade activities to induce a suspension of services.

Reiterating Keck's reply, Northrop said the answer is "an unequivical no."

"We plan to stay in Lincoln and we have no intention to subversively downgrade our services so we could then apply to get out," Northrop said.

Better Connections

Turning to present and future plans, the United representatives at first reported no intention to offer the city direct or single plane service to Chicago, saying instead the airline would "endeavor to improve connections in Omaha."

But after insistance on the part of the Lincoln delegation, Northrop said the matter of restoration of nonstop Chicago service would again be brought up. The proposal to be considered would be a daily nonjet flight departing Lincoln at 7:30 a.m. in the winter and 6:30 a.m. during summer months.

"It is entirely possible our economic forecasters have underestimated the Lincoln-Chicago traffic potential," Northrop admitted, noting that passenger load is the main criteria for scheduling flights.

Didn't Order

In response to complaints about scheduling out of Omaha, he said, "We just didn't order enough equipment three or four years ago. We don't have the equipment to handle the market."

Lincoln officials also made the following points:

—Personal service by United employes had been excellent, while scheduling, termed good in the past, has been "loused up", according to Lincolnite John Campbell.

—United should consider lowering the rates on the Lincoln-Omaha flight segment. This would prevent "a tremendous amount" of Lincoln passengers from boarding in Omaha and give a truer picture of Lincoln's traffic potential.

Only Right

Beck commented, "It's only right we should get a break in the rate schedule since we don't get the planes or the service."

Northrop said the company would "work to iron out some of these difficulties," but said the problems are not unique to Lincoln. "This should be put in its correct frame of reference," he added, "we could fill every seat on every plane if we gave our product away."

The United representatives confirmed Keck's prediction the B737 short haul jet service would be inaugurated in Lincoln in the third quarter of 1968, with all propeller flights replaced by the third quarter of 1969.

Ozark Line Jet Service On Agenda

The Lincoln Airport Authority and Nebraska Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt will meet Tuesday with representatives of Ozark Airlines to discuss possible jet passenger service in Lincoln.

Fred Eiche, chairman of the authority, said a one-stop jet route to Chicago, flights from Lincoln to St. Louis, Mo., and an extension of the airline's Rochester, Minn.-Omaha route to Lincoln will be considered.

Ozark now has routes extending from Omaha northeast to Rochester, east to Chicago and south to Kansas City, connecting there with flights to St. Louis.

Sandstedt said Lincoln's problem is getting direct connections with Chicago and St. Louis without going to Kansas City.

Eiche termed the meeting "nothing unusual" and said there would be "general discussion" about the possibility of Ozark serving Lincoln.

Judge Nuernberger Stresses Rehabilitation As Less Costly

Lancaster Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger said Thursday that rehabilitation programs could result in less expensive corrective treatment in the long run.

In speaking before the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth on "Corrective Treatment vs. Punitive Justice," Judge Nuernberger emphasized that the philosophy of the court is determined by the community as to what the community will accept.

"The courts have an obligation to do what they can to make this a law-abiding society; it is not just interested in adjudication but also in rehabilitation and what happens afterwards," he said.

He said that belief in corrective treatment does not put it in effect.

"Whether there are sufficient resources for corrective treatment depends on whether society is willing to pay the cost of what it will take to provide these resources," he said.

"It seems to follow that if there is to be rehabilitation, there will need to be corrective treament.

"Whether there is punishment or corrective treatment, there will be cost involved; and in the long run, corrective treatment could be less expensive if there is success in rehabilitating the offender," Judge Nuernberger stated.

The annual meeting of the Nebraska Committee on Children and Youth will be March 23.

Dr. Arthur Slaikeu Named To Head Lincoln Council Of Churches

Dr. Arthur Slaikeu of the First Baptist Church was elected president of the Lincoln Council of Churches at its annual meeting Thursday night.

New vice presidents are Rev. Thomas C. Huxtable of Eastridge Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Rae Cameron of Second Baptist Church and Charles Johnson of Christ Methodist Church.

The secretary is Rev. Dwight Snesrud of the Northeast Community United Church of Christ and the treasurer is Kenneth McCaw of the First Presbyterian Church.

Division chairmen are Rev. Harlan Davenport, Christian education section; Rev. N. Dwain Acker, Christian fellowship division; William Fry, finance division, and Mrs. A. F. Daland, social betterment division.

The council issued its annual report. Department and division activities:

More Than 50

Department of Ministerial Fellowship—Attendance at meetings averaged more than fifty. The department serves ministers of churches, not members of the council.

Lincoln United Church Women—Attendance averaged more than 250. The group was awarded a certificate of appreciation from the USO for the Sunday evening fellowship dinners it provided. The group cooperated in a ward adoption plan at the Lincoln State Hospital, involving approximately 200 volunteers. More than 400 health kits were made and sent to migrant children in vacation Bible schools in western Nebraska.

Lincoln Christian Youth Council—Seventy-nine young people attended the group's general assembly Sept. 20, at which groups were formed to carry out the year's activities. The group's advisor is Rev. Marvin Ruebsamen.

Comity Committee—Recommended that the Lincoln Council of Churches approve the proposal of the State Council Comity Department, that city Councils of Churches's committees serve as research committees to bring findings and recommendations to the state department for consideration and decision, and that city Comity Committees be appointed by the denominations whose congregations are members of the city councils. Reported on the establishment of new church buildings for the following churches: Disciples of Christ, United Presbyterian USA, Methodist, Fourth Presbyterian, United Church of Christ.

Division of Christian Education—Promoted the "trick or treat for UNICEF" fund collection, which reached an all-time peak of $3,557 in 1965. The group held religious services for children in the Lincoln State Hospital. Also, the group made various contributions to the Bennett Martin Library and held various workshops.

Division of Christian Fellowship—Plans were made for three Prayer for Christian Unity services in 1966, two of which have already been held. Protestants and Catholics, clergy and laymen participate. The division's Holy Week services attracted 544 persons and 1,228 attended Good Friday services. The Festival of Faith Oct. 30 attracted 1,300. Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, president of the National Council of Churches and bishop of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be speaker at the 1966 festival.

Division of Social Betterment—Discussed bottle club legislation, interviewed City Council candidates on issues, heard a discussion on public health problems, discussed low-income housing for the elderly, and took a "broad look" at the Lincoln nursing home situation. The unit also encouraged participation in the march on the Statehouse supporting fair housing legislation and mourning the death of civil rights leader Medgar Evers. The group gave continued attention to the availability of housing for Negroes and assisted in several cases.

Budget $12,568

A financial report showed the council's expenditures for 1966 are an anticipated $12,568. Spent in 1965 was $11,224.

The council's division for Christian social betterment cooperated with the U.S. Public Health Service and the City-County Health Department in making an environmental survey of the city. The survey showed refuse deficiencies, dilapidated sheds, old autos, wells and other environmental problems were greater in the low-income, crowded, low-education areas of town. Diseases also struck these areas harder.

The council executive committee came out in 1965 for the Freedom Democratic Party of Mississippi, passed a resolution favoring the state fair housing law and heard a report on laws and regulations covering aid to dependent children. The group also provided help for Project Head Start, now being operated by the public schools.

The council has moved into new quarters in the Lincoln Center for Community Services, 215 So. 15th. The council is composed of 41 member churches.

The group decided Thursday to make the council executive committee responsible for providing information to member churches on the liquor-by-the-drink issue and ask them to study the matter before any council action is taken.

Loving Concern

"Churches must adopt an attitude of acceptance and loving concern for the alcoholic as a sick person rather than as a sinner or a person to be shunned," he said. "Understanding rather than condemnation is the approach the churches must employ."

He urged church members to "become informed about alcoholism—its cures and the resources available in the community to help alcoholics."

These resources he pointed out, include Alcoholics Anonymous

"They also include the Al-Anon—a fellowship of non-alcoholic members of the family whose purpose is to understand the nature of the disease with which their family members are afflicted and to help them to learn to live with and under the difficult atmosphere of alcoholism in the family," he said.

Nonstop Chicago Flights 'Possible'

Ozark Line Jet Service On Agenda

The Lincoln Airport Authority and Nebraska Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt will meet Tuesday with representatives of Ozark Airlines to discuss possible jet passenger service in Lincoln.

Fred Eiche, chairman of the authority, said a one-stop jet route to Chicago, flights from Lincoln to St. Louis, Mo., and an extension of the airline's Rochester, Minn.-Omaha route to Lincoln will be considered.

Ozark now has routes extending from Omaha northeast to Rochester, east to Chicago and south to Kansas City, connecting there with flights to St. Louis.

Eiche termed the meeting "nothing unusual" and said there would be "general discussion" about the possibility of Ozark serving Lincoln.

Judge Nuernberger Stresses Rehabilitation As Less Costly

Lancaster Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger said Thursday that rehabilitation programs could result in less expensive corrective treatment in the long run.

In speaking before the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth on "Corrective Treatment vs. Punitive Justice," Judge Nuernberger emphasized that the philosophy of the court is determined by the community as to what the community will accept.

"The courts have an obligation to do what they can to make this a law-abiding society; it is not just interested in adjudication but also in rehabilitation and what happens afterwards," he said.

He said that belief in corrective treatment does not put it in effect.

"Whether there are sufficient resources for corrective treatment depends on whether society is willing to pay the cost of what it will take to provide these resources," he said.

"It seems to follow that if there is to be rehabilitation, there will need to be corrective treament.

"Whether there is punishment or corrective treatment, there will be cost involved; and in the long run, corrective treatment could be less expensive if there is success in rehabilitating the offender," Judge Nuernberger stated.

The annual meeting of the Nebraska Committee on Children and Youth will be March 23.

Olavarria, Argentina (AP) — Three men perished in an explosion at a factory 10 miles from this city in the center of Buenos Aires province. Officials at the Dieterle, S.A., plant said 440 pounds of gelignite was being transferred within the factory when one tray of the explosive slid off the truck, hit the concrete floor and exploded.

Dr. Arthur Slaikeu Named To Head Lincoln Council Of Churches

Dr. Arthur Slaikeu of the First Baptist Church was elected president of the Lincoln Council of Churches at its annual meeting Thursday night.

New vice presidents are Rev. Thomas C. Huxtable of Eastridge Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Rae Cameron of Second Baptist Church and Charles Johnson of Christ Methodist Church.

The secretary is Rev. Dwight Snesrud of the Northeast Community United Church of Christ and the treasurer is Kenneth McCaw of the First Presbyterian Church.

Division chairmen are Rev. Harlan Davenport, Christian education section; Rev. N. Dwain Acker, Christian fellowship division; William Fry, finance division, and Mrs. A. F. Daland, social betterment division.

The council issued its annual report. Department and division activities:

More Than 50

Department of Ministerial Fellowship—Attendance at meetings averaged more than fifty. The department serves ministers of churches, not members of the council.

Lincoln United Church Women—Attendance averaged more than 250. The group was awarded a certificate of appreciation from the USO for the Sunday evening fellowship dinners it provided. The group cooperated in a ward adoption plan at the Lincoln State Hospital, involving approximately 200 volunteers. More than 400 health kits were made and sent to migrant children in vacation Bible schools in western Nebraska.

Lincoln Christian Youth Council—Seventy-nine young people attended the group's general assembly Sept. 20. at which groups were formed to carry out the year's activities. The group's advisor is Rev. Marvin Ruebsamen.

Comity Committee—Recommended that the Lincoln Council of Churches approve the proposal of the State Council Comity Department, that city Councils of Churches's committees serve as research committees to bring findings and recommendations to the state department for consideration and decision, and that city Comity Committees be appointed by the denominations whose congregations are members of the city councils. Reported on the establishment of new church buildings for the following churches: Disciples of Christ, United Presbyterian USA, Methodist, Fourth Presbyterian, United Church of Christ.

Division of Christian Education—Promoted the "trick or treat for UNICEF" fund collection, which reached an all-time peak of $3,557 in 1965. The group held religious services for children in the Lincoln State Hospital. Also, the group made various contributions to the Bennett Martin Library and held various workshops.

Division of Christian Fellowship—Plans were made for three Prayer for Christian Unity services in 1966, two of which have already been held. Protestants and Catholics, clergy and laymen participate. The division's Holy Week services attracted 544 persons and 1,228 attended Good Friday services. The Festival of Faith Oct. 30 attracted 1,300. Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, president of the National Council of Churches and bishop of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be speaker at the 1966 festival.

Division of Social Betterment—Discussed bottle club legislation, interviewed City Council candidates on issues, heard a discussion on public health problems, discussed low-income housing for the elderly, and took a "broad look" at the Lincoln nursing home situation. The unit also encouraged participation in the march on the Statehouse supporting fair housing legislation and mourning the death of civil rights leader Medgar Evers. The group gave continued attention to the availability of housing for Negroes and assisted in several cases.

Budget $12,568

A financial report showed the council's expenditures for 1966 are an anticipated $12,568. Spent in 1965 was $11,224.

The council's division for Christian social betterment cooperated with the U.S. Public Health Service and the City-County Health Department in making an environmental survey of the city. The survey showed refuse deficiencies, dilapidated sheds, old autos, wells and other environmental problems were greater in the low-income crowded, low-education areas of town. Diseases also struck these areas harder.

The council executive committee came out in 1965 for the Freedom Democratic Party of Mississippi, passed a resolution favoring the state fair housing law and heard a report on laws and regulations covering aid to dependent children. The group also provided help for Project Head Start, now being operated by the public schools.

The council has moved into new quarters in the Lincoln Center for Community Services, 215 So. 15th. The council is composed of 41 member churches.

The group decided Thursday to make the council executive committee responsible for providing information to member churches on the liquor-by-the-drink issue and ask them to study the matter before any council action is taken.

Loving Concern

"Churches must adopt an attitude of acceptance and loving concern for the alcoholic as a sick person rather than as a sinner or a person to be shunned," he said. "Understanding rather than condemnation is the approach the churches must employ."

He urged church members to "become informed about alcoholism—its cures and the resources available in the community to help alcoholics."

These resources he pointed out, include Alcoholics Anonymous.

"They also include the Al-Anon—a fellowship of non-alcoholic members of the family whose purpose is to understand the nature of the disease with which their family members are afflicted and to help them to learn to live with and under the difficult atmosphere of alcoholism in the family," he said.

POSTCARD

This is where American cruise passengers get off SS Arcadia (P & O-Orient Lines) to fly home and Australian tourists go on to England. This is where we all speak English and nobody understands the other's accent. Island patois. Australian slang. Americanisms.

When the cruise ships come in, the Trinidad singers "sing on you." For tips.

"Lookit dat mahn so hahnsome an' tall,

"She gonna give me a five dollah bill."

These are merely street singers. The true Calypso warrior—(Calypso wars come just before Carnival)—sing in the tents. These are simply posts with a corrugated iron roof to keep the rain off.

The singer wears a coat and hat—but no tie. He's backed by an orchestra of steel gasoline drums, the tops dented by hammers so they can be struck and sound musical notes.

"The most famous singer today, sir, is The Mighty Sparrow," said the cab driver. "He calls himself 'The Calypso King of the World.' He sing in Carnegie Hall, sir.

"But last Calypso war, he lose to The Mighty Bomber. He drop a blockbuster on The Mighty Sparrow. Sparrow, he so mad, he make up a calypso on the spot: 'Robbed with V.' He was robbed with violence, he say.

"Now he will not compete, sir. He will sing for money. But he will not compete."

☆ ☆ ☆

The calypso songs are made up during the calypso wars. The singers have mighty names: Small Island King. Lord Melody. The Mighty Terror. Lord Invader made calypso popular in the States with "Rum and Coca Cola" with swept a million juke boxes.

The singers work on local gossip. Local political problems.

"There is no money to subsidize food loc-allee,

"But tens of thousands for this strange inquir-ee."

The high point is when a singer from one tent decides to "invade" another tent.

"He will invade and compete, sir. He make up a calypso verse, very detrimental to that other man's reputation, sir. Then the other man must make up a verse in answer.

"They will go on until one man cannot think of a verse. Or the people decide one man is beating the other so they applaud for him."

☆ ☆ ☆

Port of Spain is a third black, a third East Indian and a third white and mixed.

The language is English—with an island accent and patois hard to understand.

"Mahn, I vex wit' you, I mash you down! I jook you wit' de cutlass!"

The Trinidad Hilton is the newest hotel. But the breezeway Queen's Park is still on the breezy Savannah. And the Normandie still serves the tiny oysters in a hot sauce.

Up at the Hilton, the Mighty Zebra sings beside the pool. But some of the Calypso singers think all hands should get more money. They've made up a Calypso about it you can hear in the Swizzle Club.

"The mahnagement, he don't die broke,

. . . WITTHOFF REBUFFED

Kearney (UPI)—State Democratic Chairman John Mitchell said Thursday, "The Republican leadership is again trying to use the old political trick of minimizing the strength of Gov. Morrison's leadership by saying that he is lacking leadership, and hoping that if they say it enough times, some one might believe it."

Mitchell quoted State GOP Chairman Walter Witthoff as saying Thursday that Gov. Morrison lacks leadership. He added, "That is about like saying coach Bear Bryant of Alabama doesn't know how to coach football."

"We Democrats have great faith in the intelligence of the people, Mitchell said, "and I believe the people know that Nebraska Republican leadership has not taken one solitary stand on the present tax crisis in Nebraska, including State Republican Chairman Witthoff."

"They have hedged, ducked and criticized but not once has a responsible Republican office holder or leader of a Nebraska Republican Party clearly told the citizens of the state where they stand on the serious tax matters that confront us," Mitchell said.

"Where does the Nebraska Republican leadership stand on the current situation in Nebraska? What is Val Peterson's position and Sen. Carl Curtis's thinking as far as the fiscal problems of the state are concerned? Mitchell said, "You can be assured both will duck this issue as long as possible and Sen. Curtis will say that as U.S. senator he doesn't have anything to do with it, but he still is a citizen of this state and should be interested in its welfare and not just his re-election," Mitchell charged.

He said "we know where Gov. Morrison stands. He is on record. He is against the income tax bill unless a large share of the income tax money can be used to support our school system where most of our tax dollars are being spent."

"I am confident history will record the great contribution of Gov. Morrison was his leadership in moving this state forward with a sense of pride, not withstanding Mr. Witthoff's sniping from the sideline," Mitchell said.

McCreary Taking Case To Top Court

State Penitentiary inmate George McCreary Thursday notified the State Supreme Court he will carry his bid for freedom to the U.S. Supreme Court.

He asked the state court to stay its mandate in the case until the U.S. court rules on his contentions.

The State Supreme Court Friday affirmed the conviction of McCreary, 44, of Fremont, who was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for breaking into a public telephone change box and being an habitual criminal.

He was imprisoned on Feb. 26 of last year.

In his stay of mandate request, McCreary said he was denied fair trial and authorities gained evidence against him, coins and lock picks, through illegal search following the Dec. 10, 1964, break-in at a Fremont gasoline station telephone booth.

Hearing Set On Suit Against RR

The State Railway Commission's suit to block the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. from abandoning certain lines and service in northeast Nebraska will be given a hearing at 10 a.m. Friday in Federal District Court.

The suit aims to nullify an Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) order permitting the railroad to abandon a 22.47 mile branch line between Randolph and Bloomfield and discontinue operations between Randolph and Laurel on trackage of the Burlington Railroad.

The ICC order was to take effect Thursday but a temporary restraining order holds it in abeyance.

A panel of three federal judges including Harvey M. Johnson and Richard E. Robinson of Omaha, and Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln, has been named to hear the case.

Suit Seeks $18,000; Tax 'Error' Cited

An Ord man filed suit against the federal government in Federal District Court Thursday, asking the return of upward of $18,000 which he contends the Internal Revenue Service erroneously assessed in estate taxes and interest.

Edward L. Kokes brought the action as executor of the estate of Lydia L. Kokes of Valley County, who died Oct. 10, 1961.

The complaint said additional estate taxes and interest totaling $18,374.87 were paid Feb. 3, 1965 in response to the government's demand, but that the property involved in the added assessment actually was conveyed by Lydia L. Kokes Dec. 30, 1954, and gift tax returns were filed for 1954 on the property.

The complaint said the Internal Revenue Service has rejected a refund claim and asks judgment for $18,374.87 plus accrued interest and legal expenses incurred.

A jury trial in Lincoln was asked.

NWGA Backs Farm Bureau Tax Campaign

The Nebraska Wheat Growers Association announced Thursday it supports the effort to place the state property tax on the November ballot.

"The NWGA will support all farm organizations in this plan to place a clear cut tax decision before the voters next fall," association president Wayne Allen said in a statement.

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation last week announced it would soon launch an initiative petition campaign to place a property tax repealer proposal on the ballot.

It must obtain more than 57,000 valid signatures from 38 Nebraska counties.

Allen said the NWGA approved a state property tax petition drive at its state convention in November. He said directors of the association reaffirmed this position upon announcement of the Farm Bureau plan.

Sufficient signatures have been raised to put the 1965 income tax act before the voters. Efforts are being made in court, though, to block its placement on the ballot.

Grant Approved For Lincoln Action Program

Gov. Frank Morrison approved Thursday a $21,310 grant by the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Lincoln Action Program.

The Lincoln Action Program (LAP) will use the federal grant to employ a minimum staff to survey the problems of the economically disadvantaged in Lincoln, to review programs of existing agencies and to develop new programs to fill unmet needs.

Morrison commended the members of the citizen organization for their initiative and concern for the problems of their community.

"This type of citizen participation in the process of government is exactly what is needed to make any community or any state a better place to live," he said.

In addition to the Lincoln program development grant, Morrison noted the State Technical Assistance Agency, which functions under his office, has program development grants pending in the Kansas City regional office for Scottsbluff and a multiple-county unit of Dawes, Sheridan, Sioux and Box Butte counties.

Morrison said six other communities or areas are currently in the process of making application for similar program development grants.

. . . WITTHOFF REBUFFED

Kearney (UPI)—State Democratic Chairman John Mitchell said Thursday, "The Republican leadership is again trying to use the old political trick of minimizing the strength of Gov. Morrison's leadership by saying that he is lacking leadership, and hoping that if they say it enough times, some one might believe it."

Mitchell quoted State GOP Chairman Walter Witthoff as saying Thursday that Gov. Morrison lacks leadership. He added, "That is about like saying coach Bear Bryant of Alabama doesn't know how to coach football."

"We Democrats have great faith in the intelligence of the people, Mitchell said, "and I believe the people know that Nebraska Republican leadership has not taken one solitary stand on the present tax crisis in Nebraska, including State Republican Chairman Witthoff."

"They have hedged, ducked and criticized but not once has a responsible Republican office holder or leader of a Nebraska Republican Party clearly told the citizens of the state where they stand on the serious tax matters that confront us," Mitchell said.

"Where does the Nebraska Republican leadership stand on the current situation in Nebraska? What is Val Peterson's position and Sen. Carl Curtis's thinking as far as the fiscal problems of the state are concerned? Mitchell said, "You can be assured both will duck this issue as long as possible and Sen. Curtis will say that as U.S. senator he doesn't have anything to do with it, but he still is a citizen of this state and should be interested in its welfare and not just his re-election," Mitchell charged.

He said "we know where Gov. Morrison stands. He is on record. He is against the income tax bill unless a large share of the income tax money can be used to support our school system where most of our tax dollars are being spent."

"I am confident history will record the great contribution of Gov. Morrison was his leadership in moving this state forward with a sense of pride, not withstanding Mr. Witthoff's sniping from the sideline," Mitchell said.

McCreary Taking Case To Top Court

State Penitentiary inmate George McCreary Thursday notified the State Supreme Court he will carry his bid for freedom to the U.S. Supreme Court.

He asked the state court to stay its mandate in the case until the U.S. court rules on his contentions.

The State Supreme Court Friday affirmed the conviction of McCreary, 44, of Fremont, who was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for breaking into a public telephone change box and being an habitual criminal.

He was imprisoned on Feb. 26 of last year.

In his stay of mandate request, McCreary said he was denied fair trial and authorities gained evidence against him, coins and lock picks, through illegal search following the Dec. 10, 1964, break-in at a Fremont gasoline station telephone booth.

N.J. Finances Found Baffling

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of three articles surveying the tax problems of Nebraska, New Jersey and New Hampshire, the only three states without sales or personal income tax.)

By JOHN KOLESAR

Trenton, N.J. (AP)—"How in God's name can you run a state of seven million people on a budget of $600 million a year?"

The words, voiced more in amazement than admiration, made it sound like New Jersey was trying to get into the 20th century for half-price.

They came from Jesse Unruh, speaker of California's State Assembly, where they run a state of 18 million people on a four billion dollar budget.

Unruh was on a visit to New Jersey earlier this year. He saw the nation's most urban state beset by many of the same problems that afflict California—booming population, traffic jams, smoke, water pollution, a need for colleges.

But unlike California, there is no general sales tax and no personal income tax. The only other states without at least one such broad-based tax are Nebraska and New Hampshire, neither of them in the same industrial soup with New Jersey.

Lightest Load

What Unruh saw, in fact, was the state that imposes the lightest tax load in the nation, measured in terms of income. New Jersey's state taxes take $27.42 of each $1,000 of its citizens' income—about half the national average. And it manages this with less federal aid per person than any other state

But the state's frugality has not been a source of universal rejoicing among the taxpayers

The cities and towns have been forced to pick up 70% of the tax load, another less enviable record in the nation. The property tax is almost the sole means of support for local government. Thus New Jersey winds up with the heaviest property tax load in the United States — $177 per person. The owner of a $20,000 house can expect a $1,000-a-year tax bill.

None of the $1.2 billion in property taxes goes to the state government. It gets by with some of the nation's skimpiest spending on highways, colleges and institutions.

The result is a highway system heavily dependent on toll roads, the country's biggest exodus of college students to other states, a state university with high tuition and low admission rates, and a crowded old bastille of a state prison.

Other Consequences

Slum landlords put off repair work because it will run up their property tax bills. Slum property values decline, sliding more taxes on to the middle class neighborhoods.

The middle class moves out to the suburbs, leaving Negroes and other minority groups trapped with increasing welfare problems. Newark, the state's largest city, is already more than half Negro and has half the state's municipal relief load with one-fifteenth of the population.

Over the years, steam has been building for an end to the traditional Jersey setup. School teachers, tax experts, the League of Women Voters, Americans for Democratic Action, farm groups, the highway lobbyists, municipal officials and others have joined the stream pushing for either an income or sales tax.

But the New Jersey politician has been raised on anti-tax lore. In 1935 the state enacted a sales tax. It was repealed within four months in a furor of depression-spawned protest. The politicians have been tax-shy ever since.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes broke with the tradition two years ago when he proposed an income tax. He got a few pats on the back for his courage and no support at all in the legislature.

Tax Drive

But on Nov. 2 Hughes won re-election by a record plurality and swept both houses of the legislature with him, something the Democrats had not done since 1914. His position immeasurably stronger now, Hughes is putting on a full-scale drive for enactment of a progressive income tax in 1966.

He wants a tax at half of neighboring New York State's rates—1 per cent on income up to $1,000 after deductions, ranging up to 5 per cent on everything over $15,000. It would bring in $180 million a year, to add to an expected budget of about $700 million.

Enactment of the tax is no cinch, in spite of Hughes' victory. Some of the Democratic big city leaders are against a tax. There is occasional talk of a state lottery, much to Hughes' annoyance. He says a lottery will not produce one-tenth the money needed, citing New Hampshire's experience.

If Hughes can overcome the opposition to a big new tax, he will still have to fight off a possible division over the choice between an income or sales tax. He has said he will accept a sales tax on a second choice.

What happens if he gets neither?

"My whole program collapses. New Jersey will become a second-rate state."

Accreditation Unit To Tour 3 Hospitals

Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen Thursday announced the Joint Commission on Accreditation will inspect the state mental hospitals at Hastings, Norfolk and Lincoln by the first of July.

Sorensen said the Department of Public Institutions is hopeful all three institutions will receive accreditation.

"Accreditation is extremely important to us," Sorensen said. "It brings an outside viewpoint into the operations and assures the state it is meeting national standards and requirements.

"It also aids greatly in recruiting personnel."

Sorensen said the three hospitals have made a "concerted effort" to meet accreditation standards.

He noted extensive remodeling work is either in progress or in the planning stage at all three institutions and improvements in programs have been achieved.

"The three hospitals have been making consistent progress in bettering their operations in all areas," Sorensen said. "The major effort has been to move the hospitals into community oriented programs, combining the facilities of the hospitals and the out-patient clinics to better serve the entire area for which the hospitals are responsible.

He said such programs permit mental patients to remain at home or as close to their communities as possible.

'Sound Of Music' Charms Filipino

Manila (AP)—A Filipino moviegoer, Jesus Alviola, has seen "The Sound of Music," starring Julie Andrews, more than 50 times since it opened here last June and has ticket stubs to prove it. "Each time," he said, "I found it more enchanting and engrossing." The picture still plays to capacity audiences and overflow on weekends here.

N.J. Finances Found Baffling

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of three articles surveying the tax problems of Nebraska, New Jersey and New Hampshire, the only three states without sales or personal income tax.)

By JOHN KOLESAR

Trenton, N.J. (AP)—"How in God's name can you run a state of seven million people on a budget of $600 million a year?"

The words, voiced more in amazement than admiration, made it sound like New Jersey was trying to get into the 20th century for half-price.

They came from Jesse Unruh, speaker of California's State Assembly, where they run a state of 18 million people on a four billion dollar budget.

Unruh was on a visit to New Jersey earlier this year. He saw the nation's most urban state beset by many of the same problems that afflict California—booming population, traffic jams, smoke, water pollution, a need for colleges.

But unlike California, there is no general sales tax and no personal income tax. The only other states without at least one such broad-based tax are Nebraska and New Hampshire, neither of them in the same industrial soup with New Jersey.

Lightest Load

What Unruh saw, in fact, was the state that imposes the lightest tax load in the nation, measured in terms of income. New Jersey's state taxes take $27.42 of each $1,000 of its citizens' income—about half the national average. And it manages this with less federal aid per person than any other state.

But the state's frugality has not been a source of universal rejoicing among the taxpayers.

The cities and towns have been forced to pick up 70% of the tax load, another less enviable record in the nation. The property tax is almost the sole means of support for local government. Thus New Jersey winds up with the heaviest property tax load in the United States — $177 per person. The owner of a $20,000 house can expect a $1,000-a-year tax bill.

None of the $1.2 billion in property taxes goes to the state government. It gets by with some of the nation's skimpiest spending on highways, colleges and institutions.

The result is a highway system heavily dependent on toll roads, the country's biggest exodus of college students to other states, a state university with high tuition and low admission rates, and a crowded old bastille of a state prison.

Other Consequences

Slum landlords put off repair work because it will run up their property tax bills. Slum property values decline, sliding more taxes on to the middle class neighborhoods.

The middle class moves out to the suburbs, leaving Negroes and other minority groups trapped with increasing welfare problems. Newark, the state's largest city, is already more than half Negro and has half the state's municipal relief load with one-fifteenth of the population.

Over the years, steam has been building for an end to the traditional Jersey setup. School teachers, tax experts, the League of Women Voters, Americans for Democratic Action, farm groups, the highway lobbyists, municipal officials and others have joined the stream pushing for either an income or sales tax.

But the New Jersey politician has been raised on anti-tax lore. In 1935 the state enacted a sales tax. It was repealed within four months in a furor of depression-spawned protest. The politicians have been tax-shy ever since.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes broke with the tradition two years ago when he proposed an income tax. He got a few pats on the back for his courage and no support at all in the legislature.

Tax Drive

But on Nov. 2 Hughes won re-election by a record plurality and swept both houses of the legislature with him, something the Democrats had not done since 1914. His position immeasurably stronger now, Hughes is putting on a full-scale drive for enactment of a progressive income tax in 1966.

He wants a tax at half of neighboring New York State's rates—1 per cent on income up to $1,000 after deductions, ranging up to 5 per cent on everything over $15,000. It would bring in $180 million a year, to add to an expected budget of about $700 million.

Enactment of the tax is no cinch, in spite of Hughes' victory. Some of the Democratic big city leaders are against a tax. There is occasional talk of a state lottery, much to Hughes' annoyance. He says a lottery will not produce one-tenth the money needed, citing New Hampshire's experience.

If Hughes can overcome the opposition to a big new tax, he will still have to fight off a possible division over the choice between an income or sales tax. He has said he will accept a sales tax on a second choice.

What happens if he gets neither?

"My whole program collapses. New Jersey will become a second-rate state."

Accreditation Unit To Tour 3 Hospitals

Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen Thursday announced the Joint Commission on Accreditation will inspect the state mental hospitals at Hastings, Norfolk and Lincoln by the first of July.

Sorensen said the Department of Public Institutions is hopeful all three institutions will receive accreditation.

"Accreditation is extremely important to us," Sorensen said. "It brings an outside viewpoint into the operations and assures the state it is meeting national standards and requirements.

"It also aids greatly in recruiting personnel."

Sorensen said the three hospitals have made a "concerted effort" to meet accreditation standards.

He noted extensive remodeling work is either in progress or in the planning stage at all three institutions and improvements in programs have been achieved.

"The three hospitals have been making consistent progress in bettering their operations in all areas," Sorensen said. "The major effort has been to move the hospitals into community oriented programs, combining the facilities of the hospitals and the out-patient clinics to better serve the entire area for which the hospitals are responsible.

He said such programs permit mental patients to remain at home or as close to their communities as possible.

The Joint Accreditation Commission is composed of representatives of the American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Association and American Medical Association.

NEWS of the suburban areas

Jan. 21 may not be circled in red on anyone's calendar, and it probably isn't considered by most to be very exciting. But there are some little known facts that make this day a memorable one—Today is exactly one month since the first day of winter, and the snowfall has been nil. Good news. Today also is exactly two months until the first day of spring. Good news. And finally from today it is 338 days until Christmas—more good news?

But more interesting to suburban residents are the activities planned for the day and the weekend ahead.

MAPLE VILLAGE

Celebrating a wedding anniversary and a birthday will take up most of Sunday, Jan. 23, for the Keith E. Ahlschwede family. That evening the family, including youngsters, Delvin, Lee Ann, and David, will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dantzler in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ahlschwede's anniversary and of Mrs. Ahlschwede's birthday. Also present at the family dinner will be Mr. Ahlschwede's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ahlschwede of Seward.

Settling down in the Maple Village area are Mr. and Mrs. Mervin M. Russell. The family includes the young generations Russells—Steven, 11, Pami, 9, and Lori, 4½,—and Terry—he's a parakeet, and a smart one, for he can say "I Love you" and "Open the door."

MEADOW LANE

Visiting in Lincoln and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cade, Jr. this week is a former Lincoln resident, Mrs. John Jones who now resides in Lama, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Jones arrived in the city Thursday evening, but business called Mr. Jones home this morning.

Hostessing a dessert bridge club at her home Thursday evening was Mrs. Robert Longman. Her guests were Mrs. Stanley Bird, Mrs. Stan Rodenberg, Mrs. Harry Rust, Mrs. Robert Bridges, Mrs. Stanley Manske, and Mrs. Bea Boughn.

Newcomers to Meadow Lane are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Samek who are setting up house at 7219 Starr. Arriving in the nine degree temperature a week ago, the Samek household includes Marion, Rose Marie, Mary Lou, and Sharon. The family is formerly of Dwight.

TALK of the town

Recess is over. We have the feeling that the town soon will be in a go-go mood and the social merry-go-round will be tuned up for fun and frolic.

This, of course, could be wishful thinking but there are signs that the post-holiday, post-football lull has come to an end.

Speaking of merry-go-rounds, as we were a moment ago, the 'biggest show on earth' is scheduled for an appearance on Saturday, Jan. 29. Before you give it too much thought, however, we'll tell you that the 'Under the Big Tent" is something the Revelers Dancing Club dreamed up for its costume dinner dance to be held on Saturday evening, Jan. 29, at Hotel Cornhusker.

Planning the exciting affair is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. George Joy, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. James Evinger, Mr. and Mrs. William Edgecomb, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lunde, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Krejci, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Albin of Broken Bow.

• • •

Thought perhaps we should find out when Mr. and Mrs. Ed Healey and their family, planned to make the move from Chicago to Lincoln. So—we asked and learned that Mr. Healey already is in town, and that Mrs. Healey, the children—and the moving vans—would be here around about the first week in February.

The Healey family will reside in the former residence of Chancellor and Mrs. Clifford Hardin at 2110 A St.

• • •

Hear that Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Carl Junge are just back from North Platte where they spent several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wolcott. Just in case you hadn't heard, Col. and Mrs. Junge are once again full-fledged residents of Lincoln. They returned to Lincoln last November and are residing at 2841 So. 20th St.

• • •

Back in the beginning we told you about the Revelers Club 'Under the Big Top' party—Just this moment we learned that the Stardusters Dancing Club will be doing the 'Ice Follies' tomorrow evening at Hotel Lincoln.

The dinner dance arrangements are in charge of a committee which includes Mr. and Mrs. George Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Vilis Berst and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ryman.

BRIDE at candlelight service

Lighted red candles, poinsettias and evergreens formed the background for the marriage of Miss Sharon Jean Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Higgins of Portland, Ore., formerly of Lincoln, and granddaughter of Mrs. H. V. Styer, Lincoln, to Ghassan Chafic Srouji, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chafic Srouji of Nazareth, Israel, which was solemnized Wednesday, Dec. 29. The 8 o'clock evening wedding took place in Portland.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Thomas Postelwait, and Miss Christy Siegenthaler, the bridesmaid, both of Portland, wore long-skirted frocks of red velvet.

Serving as best man was Harley Floyd Higgins, brother of the bride, and the groomsmen were Dennis Reiter and Jerry Brown, all of Portland.

The bride selected white brocaded satin for her wedding gown. The sculptured basque was designed with a rounding neckline and long sleeves, and the bell skirt was pleated into fullness at the back and extended into a chapel train. A jeweled crown held her lace-edged veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade arrangmenet of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Srouji will make their home in Urbana, Ill., where the bridegroom is a graduate student at the University of Illinois. He received his degree from San Diego College. Mrs. Srouji, who has been associated with the National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C., attended Chatham Women's College, Pittsburgh, Pa., and is a graduate of Portland State College.

Vietnam Wives Club

Mrs. Jack Sronce was hostess at her home Tuesday evening to members of the Vietnam Wives Club.

Mrs. David Linn was elected chairman of the group, and serving as treasurer will be Mrs. Leith Corbridge. Mrs. Thomas Noonan will be publicity chairman.

During the informal meeting, the members made plans for future activities including a program Tuesday evening, Feb. 1, at the Capital Hotel, at which such topics as insurance and income tax will be discussed.

Workshop

A special training workshop will be held next Monday at Christ Methodist Church for Girl Scout leaders of the Jay-Husker Council.

The workshop will cover activities of all age levels from Brownies to Senior Scouts, and will begin at 9:30 o'clock. Those attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

Organized by board member, Mrs. Robert Partridge, the workshop series will be conducted by Mrs. C. A. Roberts and Mrs. John Ballew, Brownies; Mrs. Russell Palmtag and Mrs. Nancy Hrenchir, Junior Scouts; Mrs. Harold Wulf, Cadette Scouts; and Mrs. George Ernst, Senior Scouts.

Mrs. Donald James Dermyer will attend the bride-elect as matron of honor for the ceremony, which will be solemnized at 1 o'clock, at St. Thomas Aquinas Church.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Kay Stuertz and Miss Jane Lynnelle Whitmer, sister of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. William M. Whitmer will be her sister-in-law's bridesmatron. Miss Amy Jean Whitmer will attend her sister as junior bridesmaid, and the bride-elect's niece, Miss Lori Jane Whitmer, will be the flower girl.

Serving his brother as best man will be Stanley Schapmann of Tilden, and the corps of ushers will include Randall Hash of Kearney; Kenneth D. Neujahr, Jerry Johnston, Randall Sittler and William Whitmer, brother of the soon-to-be bride.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Whitmer, the bride-elect is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where her fiance is a graduate student in business administration.

The wedding of Miss Patty Joy Vergith and William Thomas Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kaiser, will be an event of Sunday, Jan. 23.

For her matron of honor, the bride-elect has named Mrs. Larry Vergith, and her bridesmatron will be her fiance's sister, Mrs. Larry Rivers. Miss Mary Jane Vergith will attend her cousin as bridesmaid, and Miss Kimberly Jo Vergith will be her aunt's flower girl.

Lighting the chancel candles for the 2:30 o'clock service, which will be solemnized at St. Paul Methodist Church, will be Miss Rosanna Kratochvil of Swanton, and John Vergith, Crete.

Larry Rivers will serve as best man, and the groomsmen will be Larry Vergith, George Maull III, Earl Kirby, Mike West and Terry Snyder. Tom Vergith will be ringbearer.

The soon-to-be bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Vergith, was honored last Sunday afternoon at a prenuptial courtesy for which Mrs. Larry Vergith was hostess at her home. During the party, a bridal shower was presented to the honoree.

Miss Vergith also was honored last Saturday evening at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Larry Rivers at her home.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law died over a year ago, and since then my husband insists on staying nights with his father—even on weekends. I know the old man isn't afraid to stay alone because I've heard him tell my husband he didn't need to stay. But my husband says we shouldn't leave the old man alone because his loneliness might lead to a second marriage, which might complicate legal settlements later. Abby, is this fair to me and the children? I have tried to be a good sport, but I find myself harboring resentments. Should I not complain, and at the same time look forward to the time when his father dies (he is 67 and in good health) so we can be a family again?

WIDOW WITH A HUSBAND

DEAR WIDOW: Of all the grasping, scheming, materialistic characters that have been brought to my attention, your husband takes the prize. Not only is he cheating you and the children, but he is cheating his father as well. If the gentleman (and he is NOT old at 67) has any interest in female companionship, he should be encouraged in it. Tell your husband to get on home where he belongs and to quit playing self-appointed guardian of his father's estate.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm making a mountain out of a molehill, but after being married to Jerry for only six months, one of his habits is really driving me out of my mind. When he sits down to eat (whether we are at home, dining out, or are guests in someone's home) the first thing Jerry does is to salt everything that requires seasoning, and I mean he salts it up, but good! Abby, he doesn't even TRY it first, he just pours the salt on. People look at him in disbelief. At the home of friends, I'm sure they think there's something wrong with their food. Shouldn't he take a little taste first? And if he likes things saltier, add a bit more salt instead of doing it in these great broad gestures? Or am I wrong to criticize him?

JERRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you husband likes salt, he should be a little more subtle in applying it, especially when he's a dinner guest. And he should take a token taste first, even though he knows he's going to add more salt. His craving for salt may be embarrassing for you, but it could have more serious implications. Tell him to mention this to his physician.

The sculptured basque was designed with a rounding neckline and long sleeves, and the bell skirt was pleated into fullness at the back and extended into a chapel train. A jeweled crown held her lace-edged veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade arrangmenet of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Srouji will make their home in Urbana, Ill., where the bridegroom is a graduate student at the University of Illinois. He received his degree from San Diego College. Mrs. Srouji, who has been associated with the National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C., attended Chatham Women's College, Pittsburgh, Pa., and is a graduate of Portland State College.

TALK
of the town

Recess is over. We have the feeling that the town soon will be in a go-go mood and the social merry-go-round will be tuned up for fun and frolic.

This, of course, could be wishful thinking but there are signs that the post-holiday, post-football lull has come to an end.

* * *

Speaking of merry-go-rounds, as we were a moment ago, the 'biggest show on earth' is scheduled for an appearance on Saturday, Jan. 29. Before you give it too much thought, however, we'll tell you that the 'Under the Big Tent'' is something the Revelers Dancing Club dreamed up for its costume dinner dance to be held on Saturday evening, Jan. 29, at Hotel Cornhusker.

Planning the exciting affair is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. George Joy, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. James Evinger, Mr. and Mrs. William Edgecomb, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lunde, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Krejci, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Albin of Broken Bow.

* * *

Thought perhaps we should find out when Mr. and Mrs. Ed Healey and their family, planned to make the move from Chicago to Lincoln. So—we asked and learned that Mr. Healey already is in town, and that Mrs. Healey, the children—and the moving vans—would be here around about the first week in February.

The Healey family will reside in the former residence of Chancellor and Mrs. Clifford Hardin at 2110 A St.

* * *

Hear that Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Carl Junge are just back from North Platte where they spent several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wolcott. Just in case you hadn't heard, Col. and Mrs. Junge are once again full-fledged residents of Lincoln. They returned to Lincoln last November and are residing at 2841 So. 20th St.

* * *

Back in the beginning we told you about the Revelers Club 'Under the Big Top' party —Just this moment we learned that the Stardusters Dancing Club will be doing the 'Ice Follies' tomorrow evening at Hotel Lincoln.

The dinner dance arrangements are in charge of a committee which includes Mr. and Mrs. George Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Vilis Berst and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ryman.

Vietnam Wives Club

Mrs. Jack Sronce was hostess at her home Tuesday evening to members of the Vietnam Wives Club.

Mrs. David Linn was elected chairman of the group, and serving as treasurer will be Mrs. Leith Corbridge. Mrs. Thomas Noonan will be publicity chairman.

During the informal meeting, the members made plans for future activities including a program Tuesday evening, Feb. 1, at the Capital Hotel, at which such topics as insurance and income tax will be discussed.

Attendants Announced

Revealing plans this morning for her approaching wedding is Miss Annie Laurie Whitmer who will become the bride of Gerald Lee Schapmann of Tilden, on Saturday, Feb. 5.

Mrs. Donald James Dermyer will attend the bride-elect as matron of honor for the ceremony, which will be solemnized at 1 o'clock, at St. Thomas Aquinas Church.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Kay Stuertz and Miss Jane Lynnelle Whitmer, sister of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. William M. Whitmer will be her sister-in-law's bridesmatron. Miss Amy Jean Whitmer will attend her sister as junior bridesmaid, and the bride-elect's niece, Miss Lori Jane Whitmer, will be the flower girl.

Serving his brother as best man will be Stanley Schapmann of Tilden, and the corps of ushers will include Randall Hash of Kearney; Kenneth D. Neujahr, Jerry Johnston, Randall Sittler and William Whitmer, brother of the soon-to-be bride.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Whitmer, the bride-elect is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where her fiance is a graduate student in business administration.

The wedding of Miss Patty Joy Vergith and William Thomas Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kaiser, will be an event of Sunday, Jan. 23.

For her matron of honor, the bride-elect has named Mrs. Larry Vergith, and her bridesmatron will be her fiance's sister, Mrs. Larry Rivers. Miss Mary Jane Vergith will attend her cousin as bridesmaid, and Miss Kimberly Jo Vergith will be her aunt's flower girl.

Lighting the chancel candles for the 2:30 o'clock service, which will be solemnized at St. Paul Methodist Church, will be Miss Rosanna Kratochvil of Swanton, and John Vergith, Crete.

Larry Rivers will serve as best man, and the groomsmen will be Larry Vergith, George Maull III, Earl Kirby, Mike West and Terry Snyder. Tom Vergith will be ringbearer.

The soon-to-be bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Vergith, was honored last Sunday afternoon at a prenuptial courtesy for which Mrs. Larry Vergith was hostess at her home. During the party, a bridal shower was presented to the honoree.

Miss Vergith also was honored last Saturday evening at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Larry Rivers at her home.

ABBY
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law died over a year ago, and since then my husband insists on staying nights with his father—even on weekends. I know the old man isn't afraid to stay alone because I've heard him tell my husband he didn't need to stay. But my husband says we shouldn't leave the old man alone because his loneliness might lead to a second marriage, which might complicate legal settlements later. Abby, is this fair to me and the children? I have tried to be a good sport, but I find myself harboring resentments. Should I not complain, and at the same time look forward to the time when his father dies (he is 67 and in good health) so we can be a family again?

WIDOW WITH A HUSBAND

DEAR WIDOW: Of all the grasping, scheming, materialistic characters that have been brought to my attention, your husband takes the prize. Not only is he cheating you and the children, but he is cheating his father as well. If the gentleman (and he is NOT old at 67) has any interest in female companionship, he should be encouraged in it. Tell your husband to get on home where he belongs and to quit playing self-appointed guardian of his father's estate.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm making a mountain out of a molehill, but after being married to Jerry for only six months, one of his habits is really driving me out of my mind. When he sits down to eat (whether we are at home, dining out, or are guests in someone's home) the first thing Jerry does is to salt everything that requires seasoning, and I mean he salts it up, but good! Abby, he doesn't even TRY it first, he just pours the salt on. People look at him in disbelief. At the home of friends, I'm sure they think there's something wrong with their food. Shouldn't he take a little taste first? And if he likes things saltier, add a bit more salt instead of doing it in these great broad gestures? Or am I wrong to criticize him?

JERRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you husband likes salt, he should be a little more subtle in applying it, especially when he's a dinner guest. And he should take a token taste first, even though he knows he's going to add more salt. His craving for salt may be embarrassing for you, but it could have more serious implications. Tell him to mention this to his physician.

AWARD
was mother-daughter affair

It was most appropriate that the PTA Life Memberships awarded this year by Riley PTA should be presented by Mrs. J. O. Schon, the very first president of the unit and a member of the first PTA Council in Lincoln.

But it was of more than usual interest when two of the very surprised recipients, honored for their service to the school and the PTA, should be Mrs. Schon's daughters, Mrs. John Madden, Riley School office secretary, and Mrs. Dale Schappaugh, director of the school library. Also honored by the PTA was Mrs. Albert Klein, publicity chairman for the group.

From the left are Mrs. Schon, Mrs. Schappaugh, Mrs. Madden and Mrs. Klein.

Short Skirts, Tinted Hose

Skirts were short and colors dramatic in the Italian spring-summer high fashion shows Wednesday.

Any hemline long enough to cover part of the knee classifies as "long" in the current style previews for international buyers and press. But the knee-baring hemline creates its own problems of proportion that each designer deals with individually.

Veneziani of Milan kept her hemlines high and tinted sheer nylons and shoes to match the dress. The result was a graceful answer to the problem of what to do with the area from the bared knee on down. Her t-strap shoes also neatly proved that boots are not inevitable, even though skirts are short.

Designer Biki also liked the look of stockings tuned in on the same color wave-length as her short dresses.

The Veneziani line was pared down to the bare essentials and sparked with insets of glitter beading or cutouts at midriff, neck or back that let flesh provide the texture contrasts.

Coats and suits were done in light reversible fabrics, collars were small and rolled and the general fit over shoulders and bodice was as easy as that of a beach shirt.

Veneziani's slightly flared spring coats came in colors like sun yellow, hot pink, lilac and turquoise. The stockings matched. The dresses beneath were two-toned shifts that added white to the color of the coat.

Forquet of Rome presented a sophisticated collection that included shirt-cuffed little jackets by day and flowing burnooses and kaftans for evening.

The basic line of the collection was smooth and slim. Big hats balanced the silhouette.

BRIDGE
B. JAY BECKER

BIDDING QUIZ

You are the dealer, neither side vulnerable, and have opened One Heart. Partner responds Two Hearts. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AJ6 ♥AQ87 ♦KQ3 ♣KJ5
2. ♠5 ♥J97642 ♦A6 ♣AK94
3. ♠AK8 ♥AJ743 ♦K82 ♣Q9
4. ♠AJ72 ♥AK9863 ♦— ♣AJ5

1. Three notrump. The two heart bid can take many forms, but, in general, it represents 6 to 9 points, whether in high cards, distribution, or a combination of both. Consequently it follows that there is a combined holding of at least 26 points and that a game contract must be reached.

A rebid of two notrump would be inadequate. Responder is not required to bid again and might pass. Three notrump is not necessarily the final say in the matter. Partner may have a hand which indicates that a suit contract is better than notrump, in which event he is at liberty to bid four hearts.

2. Four hearts. A hand can rise tremendously in value depending on the nature of partner's response. Thus, this hand containing 12 high-card points is not impressive if partner responds one spade or one notrump, but it zooms greatly in value when partner raises to two hearts. The real worth of the hand revolves about the question of partner's having a heart fit, and once this is discovered, the chances of making a game are vastly increased. Losing four tricks becomes highly unlikely.

3. Three hearts. Here you are not in the best position to judge whether you can make four hearts; a great deal depends on how good a raise your partner has. The way to find out is to bid three.

What this says to partner is: "We may have a game. If you have a minimum raise, we can't make four hearts, because if we could I would have bid it without asking you. But if your raise is a good one, let's go to game because I have enough extra values to produce ten tricks opposite a maximum raise."

4. Two spades. Here there is no question that a game can be made. The spade bid is the first move of an investigation for a slam. It is a forcing bid.

Actually, partner does not need a maximum raise for a slam to be made. The slam, if there is one, is a question of fit. If partner has no wasted values in diamonds, a slam might easily be made. Thus, partner might have a singleton spade and the king of clubs, which would already make twelve tricks feasible. The final contract depends on partner's responses. If he keeps signing off, we settle for just a game.

Entertained Club Members

Guests of the club were Mrs. Don Reddish, Mrs. Esther Cropsey and Mrs. Edith Schrader, and introduced as new club members were Mrs. Richard Cummings and Mrs. Dwight Talcott.

The program on, "Reinforcing Ready-To-Wear", was presented by Mrs. Lee Hunt and Mrs. Warren Oetjen. The members also drew names of "secret sisters" for the year.

WHY Grow Old?
JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. I am counting calories because I must lose weight, for health as well as good looks. I have read that a reducer can munch on celery sticks to her heart's content because celery has so few calories. I have found this to be a very filling and pleasant way to "fill up" between reducing meals. However, my doctor tells me that celery is too high in sodium for my special condition.

A. Try carrot sticks, cauliflower buds and radishes.

Q. My mother is 65 years old. In the past six or eight months little bags have appeared around her eyes. I have noticed this same thing in women even younger than my mother. This is affecting her life in every way. Can anything be done about it?

A. These can be successfully removed by plastic surgery.

Q. I am 19 years old. Can you tell me if electrolysis on the breasts is dangerous? I have long dark hairs around the nipples and would like to have them removed.

A. See a competent skin specialist. This is not dangerous when properly done.

Q. I used to have a wonderful figure until about eight months ago. Now I have a roll of fat hanging over my belt. It is very embarrassing! I would like to get rid of it. Do you recommend certain exercises for the weight between my shoulders and my waist?

A. Since this roll appeared so suddenly I guess that you have gained at least 10 pounds. Count calories in order to lose. Also do the following exercise. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms sideward, shoulder height. Keep the arms in this position as you twist your trunk as far to the right as you can. Now twist to the left. Continue alternating left and right.

No Joke Any More

During Joe Cipriano's first two seasons as Nebraska basketball coach and even starting into his third, basketball at NU was used as more of a joking point by all but the most die-hard cage fans.

There were jokes about Joe's job being safe as long as the football team kept going to bowls because no one even noticed basketball until after Jan. 1. There were jokes—and these were strong even before Joe came—about the Huskers never getting to play anytime except in the sunlight during the Big Eight pre-season tournament.

But basketball at Nebraska is no joke any more, especially to coaches Ted Owens at Kansas, Tex Winter at Kansas State, Glen Anderson at Iowa State and Bob Vanatta at Missouri, all of whom have been victims of the Huskers in the league race.

Nor is Nebraska basketball likely to be a joking matter with coaches Bob Stevens of Oklahoma, who must face the Huskers Saturday night at the NU Coliseum, Hank Iba of Oklahoma State or Sox Walseth of Colorado.

Of course, the highlight of the season thus far was Tuesday night's win over Kansas as the Huskers vaulted into first place in the Big Eight and there may be those who would still think this just a flash in the pan.

These people would point to the 1958 season when the Huskers, under coach Jerry Bush, upset Kansas with Wilt Chamberlain and top-ranked Kansas State in successive games.

No Resemblance

But there is no resemblance between this team and that 1958 squad other than that they both use the same dressing quarters and wear the same color of uniforms.

For that 1958 team to pull the major basketball upsets of the season, they had to change their normal game plans. That team went into a slow-down game against Kansas to put the brakes on Wilt.

This year's team is winning without strategy gimmicks. They are winning by doing the same thing well every game. They are winninng not with special slow-down tactics, but rather with basic baskettball fundamentals—sound defense, hot shooting, good ball-handling, hustle and teamwork.

And those who fear the bubble may burst any minute could be right as UCLA has proven already. But fears that the team might fold because of the pressure of being No. 1 in the Big Eight are unreal.

If this team were to fold, it has had plenty of opportunity even in the last two games. Wouldn't it have been easy to fold after losing a 20-point lead to Kansas State? And wouldn't it have been easy again when trailing Kansas by nine?

Poise has been a feature of recent Nebraska football teams and it apparently is contagious on the NU campus—at least it has infected the Husker cagers.

Not Like Husker Teams

Until this season, Nebraska basketball teams in recent years have been easily identifiable by two characteristics—they couldn't win on the road and they couldn't win a game of basketball 21 if they were shooting against a local neighborhood contingent.

Players who could shoot 40% from anywhere on the floor as prep cagers would suddenly find that they couldn't hit the backboards on a lay-up at the NU Coliseum.

A Nebraska basketball team that could hit anywhere near 50% for even three minutes let alone an entire game was unheard of—but this team has done it.

In addition to the obvious benefits this basketball team has provided for the university like a full coliseum every game, it has fulfilled two other duties:

Its success will make the gap between the end of the football season and the start of spring football practice a little shorter for Nebraska sports fans and coach Joe Cipriano has paid back a debt he owed to football coach Bob Devaney by taking people's minds away from the Orange Bowl game.

—SIGNS 3 YEAR PACT—

Austin Named Steeler Coach

Pittsburgh (AP)—Bill Austin the last man interviewed for the job, was given a three-year contract Thursday as head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The surprise announcement ended a month-long search for a successor to Mike Nixon, 43, who was fired Dec. 28 after one of the National Football League team's most dismal seasons. The Steelers finished 1965 season with a 2-12 record.

Austin, 37-year-old line coach of the Los Angeles Rams, came to Pittsburgh Wednesday from his home in Van Nuys, Calif. He met Steeler owner Art Rooney for the first time, returned home, and was told Thursday of his selection from among more than 50 candidates.

"It's a big challenge," Austin said, "but I'm happy to be with such an organization as the Steelers and with fine management like the Rooney family.

"Things have happened so fast, I really haven't had much chance to talk to my wife about it."

One of the youngest head coaches in the league, Austin said he will start developing his staff Monday.

Nothing was said about replacing the present staff, but Dan Rooney, Steeler vice president and son of Art, remarked at a news conference that Austin "has to have a staff that coaches football the way he believes it should be."

"Bill has his work cut out for him. He is just starting his career as a head coach which we think will be a long tenure," Dan Rooney added.

Salary terms were not disclosed.

Austin joined the Rams last season after six years with the Green Bay Packers under Coach Vince Lombardi. Dan Rooney said Austin's selection was based heavily on Lombardi's recommendation.

Before joining Green Bay, Austin was line coach at Wichita University in 1958. He played guard with the New York Giants in 1949 and 1950 and spent two years in the service, returning to the Giants in 1953 and remaining until 1957.

He played college ball at Oregon State.

Several men had been mentioned as possible successors to Nixon. Austin was not.

Nixon, a veteran assistant coach, was selected to direct the team last Sept. 6 after the resignation of Raymond Buddy Parker.

COOPERSTOWN ADDS TED

Red Sox Great Receives Honor

. . . ON FIRST TRY

Boston (AP) — Ted Williams, one of baseball all-time hitting greats, welcomed election to the Hall of Fame Thursday with the enthusiasm of a kid hitting a grand slam homer.

"This is a wonderful day for me," the former Boston Red Sox slugger said. "I can't think of anything a ballplayer would want more."

Williams was on hand at Fenway Park, home of some of his greatest triumphs, as his election was announced by Hy Hurwitz, secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He listened intently as he was named a landslide winner with 282 votes, an all-time high, in balloting by 10-year BBWAA members, including many with whom he had feuded during his stormy career.

Williams was left off only 20 ballots, polling 93.3 per cent of the total vote. Only Ty Cobb registered a higher percentage of eligible votes, being named on 222 of 226 ballots in 1936.

Red Ruffing, who won 273 games in 22 seasons with the Red Sox, the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, suffered a second straight disappointment. Ruffing, runner-up to Luke Appling in a runoff election in 1964, received 208 votes, 18 short of the 75 per cent required.

Roy Campanella was third with 197 votes, followed by Joe Medwick with 187, Lou Boudreau with 115, Al Lopez with 109 and Enos Slaughter with 100.

Tieless and wearing a sports shirt, Williams was a serious speaker as television crews and photographers trained cameras on him.

"I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am to have been elected to the Hall of Fame," he said without emotion. "I've always known how lucky I've been to be connected with Tom Yawkey and the Red Sox.

"I'm also convinced I was just as lucky to be in a town with such rabid fans. As I look over the list of these other fellows who were not elected, I am sorry they won't be with me.

"I also want to thank the writers for making all this possible — the chance of getting in my first year as an eligible. I am very proud of that. This is a wonderful day for me.

The emotion broke loose and Williams grinned, waved his arms as if swinging a bat and joked in his friendliest fashion.

"I just can't say how pleased I am," he said, "I'm darn happy. This is a tremendous thrill. It's just great."

Williams, who will be 48 in August, compiled a lifetime average of .344 in 19 seasons with the Red Sox. Despite several disabling injuries and two hitches as a Marine flyer in World War II and in Korea, he hit 521 homers, placing him third behind Babe Ruth, and Jimmy Foxx, 534. He also hit .406 in 1941—the only time the .400 mark has been reached in the last 25 years.

Despite a .316 average and 29 homers, plus a $125,000-a-year salary, Williams retired at the age of 42 after the 1960 season.

After spending the required five years inactive as a player, he became the 103rd voted into the Hall of Fame. And he made it in his first crack, an honor that eluded such former greats as Joe DiMaggio, who had to wait beyond the minimum period for election.

Of the 103 members, 40 have been elected by writers and 63 by the veterans' committee. The two groups vote every other year.

Oklahomans Invade Jays

Omaha — It will surprise no one if someone's score zooms over the century mark when the Creighton University Bluejays take on offense-minded Oklahoma City U. Saturday at the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Creighton has topped 100 three times this season while OCU is averaging 95 points a game.

Coach Abe Lemons' Cheifs bring a 12-3 record into the Auditorium where a year ago they up-ended the Jays, 82-79. Creighton later returned the favor on the OCU home court with an embarrassing 87-72 thrashing of the NCAA tournament-bound Oklahomans.

If Creighton hopes to improve its 6-6 record, it will have to find some way to stop 24-point-a-game man Jerry Lee Wells and 6-8 James (Weasel) Ware, the nation's leading rebounder.

Creighton will counter with a 6-7 forward wall headed by newly-named captain Tim Powers (19.9 ppg.) with Neil Johnson (13.0) at the pivot and rookie Wally Anderzunas (12.9) at the other forward. Veteran Fritz Pointer, 6-4 (11.6) will man one guard spot with juco grad Willie Boyce, 6 3 (8.3) at the other.

NU Thinclads In LA Field

Sprint champion Charlie Greene and Husker track captain Dave Crook will represent Nebraska in the Los Angeles Invitational Track and Field Meet Saturday night.

The meet will be taped for Sunday viewing on national television.

Green will compete in the 60-yard dash, the event he won in a record-breaking time of :06.0 in the San Francisco Examiner meet two weeks ago, while Crook — who has just been elected captain for 1966 — will debut in the 600-yard run.

Charlie the Jet, meanwhile, explained why he failed to place in a meet at Detroit last week in the wake of a wire service story that he "failed to finish in the money."

"I hate to alibi, you see," Greene said. "However, the story was right — I didn't place. However, I felt real good because I was in Manhattan, Kansas watching Nebraska beat K-State in basketball, you see."

Ted Won The Big One

WRITERS CAME THROUGH WHEN CHIPS WERE DOWN

By JOE REICHLER

The stormy slugger, now a baseball immortal, will never win any popularity contest among newspapermen. Ten times as many writers hated him as liked him when he was hammering home runs for the Boston Red Sox.

But when the chips were down, when the time came to rate him on ability alone, the writers sent the big guy into the Hall of Fame in a landslide vote the first time his name was on the ballot.

Admittedly, it was not judgment alone that determined my affirmative vote. Sentiment and friendship played a part. I took him as I found him and I found him to be friendly, warm and wonderfully cooperative.

Faults? He had them by the bushel. But his virtues were many and great. He was one of the most generous of sports personalities. During the many years of our association, he was a loyal friend, a thoroughly honest man. Phoniness was foreign to him.

It's impossible to feel neutral about this controversial, outspoken man of many moods. From the very beginning, he was brash, cocky, aloof, antagonistic, seemingly concerned only with his own welfare. He was an individualist. He had an inch-short temper.

"My personal life is nobody's business but my own," he kept repeating. His passion for privacy was one of the things that made him unpopular with some sports writers. It helped conceal his generosity.

He was known to waiters and bellhops as a big tipper. He divided $1,000 a year among the clubhouse helpers. He sent books and magazines to hospitals, gifts and money to widows of policemen and firemen. He visited shut-in children. But he did it in private.

In Boston, where he could have been the biggest idol since John L. Sullivan, the rap against him was that he was a fresh kid — surly, profane, an individual rather than a team player. Writers criticized him constantly, and the fans, especially those seated in left field at Fenway Park, assaulted him with insults. He counterattacked in kind.

And he walloped baseballs. He was one of the greatest hitters ever, not even his sternest critics dare to challenge that.

The Kid, as Williams was called, was a warrior, bigger in many respects than those who yapped at him.

But people have a tendency to remember the worst.

Ted lived in a splendid, isolated island. The strange things about the case of Willimas against the people is that he could have won them over so easily. A tip of his cap, a smile, and he could have been one of the most popular athletes who ever lived.

"I made up my mind in my second year, in 1940, never to tip my hat to the fans," Williams once said. "I'll never forget that game. I struck out and followed with an error in the field. Then I heard it. They really gave it to me good. When I came into the dugout, I swore I'd never again tip my hat no matter how much I was cheered."

Williams changed after his return from Korea although he refused to admit it. His antagonistic attitude gave way to a live-and-let-live attitude. He accepted people for what they were, not what he would have liked them to be. But basically, he was still the shy, sensitive and, at times, complex person, who was ever trying to cover up a kind inner nature with a tough exterior.

One of my favorite memories of Ted Williams goes back to spring training in 1963. The Red Sox were conditioning in Scottsdale, Ariz., then and Ted was working as batting instructor.

We had dinner together. It had to be secretive because his reputation for life-long animosity with newsmen would be ruined if it were found out that he fraternized with one of them.

We drove 15 miles into the mountains to a hideout restaurant and returned late — a precaution against being seen together. At Ted's suggestion, we strolled down the dark streets behind the motel, in an area of one-family homes.

Ted suddenly mimicked a yapping fox terrier. Immediately, a dog responded. Delighted, Ted barked again. Another dog barked back. Before long, Williams had the whole community awake, with dogs barking and howling everywhere.

Geiberger Takes Early Crosby Tourney Lead

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP)—Slim Al Geiberger dropped a 25-foot putt and two more from 15 feet Thursday while fashioning a three-under-par 68 and the first round lead in Bing Crosby's $104,500 golf tournament.

He held a one-stroke lead over four others, who toured the same course on a sunny, chilly day.

Bracketed at 69 were Californians Ken Towns of San Jose, Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs, and Lee Raymond of Redwood City, along with Oklahoma City's Ernie Vossler.

Most of the big name golfers and celebrity amateurs played at Cypress Point, a tougher course which drew the great majority of the opening day record throng of 25,000.

Billy Casper, twice winner of this tournament and the recent San Diego Open, had a 71 at Cypress as he came home with a 32 on the back nine after a 39 on the first.

He three-putted the first hole from 15 feet and said, "That might have helped me. It woke me up."

Then he sank birdie putts of two feet at the third hole, 15 at the fifth and two feet at the ninth. He missed the green at the 10th and went over par and then sank another 15-footer at the 12th and a 25-footer at the 14th for his 34-34—68.

Towns shot a 35-34—69, Bondeson 34-35, Raymond 34-35 and Vossler 33-36.

No Joke Any More

During Joe Cipriano's first two seasons as Nebraska basketball coach and even starting into his third, basketball at NU was used as more of a joking point by all but the most die-hard cage fans.

There were jokes about Joe's job being safe as long as the football team kept going to bowls because no one even noticed basketball until after Jan. 1. There were jokes—and these were strong even before Joe came—about the Huskers never getting to play anytime except in the sunlight during the Big Eight pre-season tournament.

But basketball at Nebraska is no joke any more, especially to coaches Ted Owens at Kansas, Tex Winter at Kansas State, Glen Anderson at Iowa State and Bob Vanatta at Missouri, all of whom have been victims of the Huskers in the league race.

Nor is Nebraska basketball likely to be a joking matter with coaches Bob Stevens of Oklahoma, who must face the Huskers Saturday night at the NU Coliseum, Hank Iba of Oklahoma State or Sox Walseth of Colorado.

Of course, the highlight of the season thus far was Tuesday night's win over Kansas as the Huskers vaulted into first place in the Big Eight and there may be those who would still think this just a flash in the pan.

These people would point to the 1958 season when the Huskers, under coach Jerry Bush, upset Kansas with Wilt Chamberlain and top-ranked Kansas State in successive games.

No Resemblance

But there is no resemblance between this team and that 1958 squad other than that they both use the same dressing quarters and wear the same color of uniforms.

For that 1958 team to pull the major basketball upsets of the season, they had to change their normal game plans. That team went into a slow-down game against Kansas to put the brakes on Wilt.

This year's team is winning without strategy gimmicks. They are winning by doing the same thing well every game. They are winninng not with special slow-down tactics, but rather with basic baskettball fundamentals—sound defense, hot shooting, good ball-handling, hustle and teamwork.

And those who fear the bubble may burst any minute could be right as UCLA has proven already. But fears that the team might fold because of the pressure of being No. 1 in the Big Eight are unreal.

If this team were to fold, it has had plenty of opportunity even in the last two games. Wouldn't it have been easy to fold after losing a 20-point lead to Kansas State? And wouldn't it have been easy again when trailing Kansas by nine?

Poise has been a feature of recent Nebraska football teams and it apparently is contagious on the NU campus—at least it has infected the Husker cagers.

Not Like Husker Teams

Until this season, Nebraska basketball teams in recent years have been easily identifiable by two characteristics—they couldn't win on the road and they couldn't win a game of basketball 21 if they were shooting against a local neighborhood contingent.

Players who could shoot 40% from anywhere on the floor as prep cagers would suddenly find that they couldn't hit the backboards on a lay-up at the NU Coliseum.

A Nebraska basketball team that could hit anywhere near 50% for even three minutes let alone an entire game was unheard of—but this team has done it.

In addition to the obvious benefits this basketball team has provided for the university like a full coliseum every game, it has fulfilled two other duties:

Its success will make the gap between the end of the football season and the start of spring football practice a little shorter for Nebraska sports fans and coach Joe Cipriano has paid back a debt he owed to football coach Bob Devaney by taking people's minds away from the Orange Bowl game.

Austin Named Steeler Coach

Pittsburgh (AP)—Bill Austin the last man interviewed for the job, was given a three-year contract Thursday as head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The surprise announcement ended a month-long search for a successor to Mike Nixon, 43, who was fired Dec. 28 after one of the National Football League team's most dismal seasons. The Steelers finished 1965 season with a 2-12 record.

Austin, 37-year-old line coach of the Los Angeles Rams, came to Pittsburgh Wednesday from his home in Van Nuys, Calif. He met Steeler owner Art Rooney for the first time, returned home, and was told Thursday of his selection from among more than 50 candidates.

"It's a big challenge," Austin said, "but I'm happy to be with such an organization as the Steelers and with fine management like the Rooney family.

"Things have happened so fast, I really haven't had much chance to talk to my wife about it."

One of the youngest head coaches in the league, Austin said he will start developing his staff Monday.

Nothing was said about replacing the present staff, but Dan Rooney, Steeler vice president and son of Art, remarked at a news conference that Austin "has to have a staff that coaches football the way he believes it should be."

"Bill has his work cut out for him. He is just starting his career as a head coach which we think will be a long tenure," Dan Rooney added.

Salary terms were not disclosed.

Austin joined the Rams last season after six years with the Green Bay Packers under Coach Vince Lombardi. Dan Rooney said Austin's selection was based heavily on Lombardi's recommendation.

Before joining Green Bay, Austin was line coach at Wichita University in 1958. He played guard with the New York Giants in 1949 and 1950 and spent two years in the service, returning to the Giants in 1953 and remaining until 1957.

He played college ball at Oregon State.

Several men had been mentioned as possible successors to Nixon. Austin was not.

Nixon, a veteran assistant coach, was selected to direct the team last Sept. 6 after the resignation of Raymond Buddy Parker.

COOPERSTOWN ADDS TED

Red Sox Great Receives Honor

... ON FIRST TRY

Boston (AP) — Ted Williams, one of baseball all-time hitting greats, welcomed election to the Hall of Fame Thursday with the enthusiasm of a kid hitting a grand slam homer.

"This is a wonderful day for me," the former Boston Red Sox slugger said. "I can't think of anything a ballplayer would want more."

Williams was on hand at Fenway Park, home of some of his greatest triumphs, as his election was announced by Hy Hurwitz, secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He listened intently as he was named a landslide winner with 282 votes, an all-time high, in balloting by 10-year BBWAA members, including many with whom he had feuded during his stormy career.

Williams was left off only 20 ballots, polling 93.3 per cent of the total vote. Only Ty Cobb registered a higher percentage of eligible votes, being named on 222 of 226 ballots in 1936.

Red Ruffing, who won 273 games in 22 seasons with the Red Sox, the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, suffered a second straight disappointment. Ruffing, runner-up to Luke Appling in a runoff election in 1964, received 208 votes, 18 short of the 75 per cent required.

Roy Campanella was third with 197 votes, followed by Joe Medwick with 187, Lou Boudreau with 115, Al Lopez with 109 and Enos Slaughter with 100.

Tieless and wearing a sports shirt, Williams was a serious speaker as television crews and photographers trained cameras on him.

"I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am to have been elected to the Hall of Fame," he said without emotion. "I've always known how lucky I've been to be connected with Tom Yawkey and the Red Sox.

"I'm also convinced I was just as lucky to be in a town with such rabid fans. As I look over the list of these other fellows who were not elected, I am sorry they won't be with me.

"I also want to thank the writers for making all this possible — the chance of getting in my first year as an eligible. I am very proud of that. This is a wonderful day for me.

The emotion broke loose and Williams grinned, waved his arms as if swinging a bat and joked in his friendliest fashion.

"I just can't say how pleased I am," he said, "I'm darn happy. This is a tremendous thrill. It's just great."

Williams, who will be 48 in August, compiled a lifetime average of .344 in 19 seasons with the Red Sox. Despite several disabling injuries and two hitches as a Marine flyer in World War II and in Korea, he hit 521 homers, placing him third behind Babe Ruth, and Jimmy Foxx, 534. He also hit .406 in 1941—the only time the .400 mark has been reached in the last 35 years.

Despite a .316 average and 29 homers, plus a $125,000-a-year salary, Williams retired at the age of 42 after the 1960 season.

After spending the required five years inactive as a player, he became the 103rd voted into the Hall of Fame. And he made it in his first crack, an honor that eluded such former greats as Joe DiMaggio, who had to wait beyond the minimum period for election.

Of the 103 members, 40 have been elected by writers and 63 by the veterans' committee. The two groups vote every other year.

Geiberger Takes Early Crosby Tourney Lead

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP)—Slim Al Geiberger dropped a 25-foot putt and two more from 15 feet Thursday while fashioning a three-under-par 68 and the first round lead in Bing Crosby's $104,500 golf tournament.

He held a one-stroke lead over four others, who toured the same course on a sunny, chilly day.

Bracketed at 69 were Californians Ken Towns of San Jose, Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs, and Lee Raymond of Redwood City, along with Oklahoma City's Ernie Vossler.

Most of the big name golfers and celebrity amateurs played at Cypress Point, a tougher course which drew the great majority of the opening day record throng of 25,000.

Billy Casper, twice winner of this tournament and the recent San Diego Open, had a 71 at Cypress as he came home with a 32 on the back nine after a 39 on the first.

He three-putted the first hole from 15 feet and said, "That might have helped me. It woke me up."

Then he sank birdie putts of two feet at the third hole, 15 at the fifth and two feet at the ninth. He missed the green at the 10th and went over par and then sank another 15-footer at the 12th and a 25-footer at the 14th for his 34-34—68.

Towns shot a 35-34—69, Bondeson 34-35, Raymond 34-35 and Vossler 33-36.

Detroit, Salt Lake City Bid For Olympic Games

. . . SITES TO BE CHOSEN APRIL 25

Chicago (AP) — The bidding deadline for the 1972 Olympics was reached Thursday with Detroit, Munich, Montreal and Madrid in competition for the Summer Games and Salt Lake City, Calgary, Alta., and Sapporo, Japan, seeking the Winter Games.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, said he was notified by ICC headquarters at Lusanne, Switzerland, that Amsterdam had dropped out as a Summer Games candidate.

Sites of the 1968 Olympics already have been designated. The Summer Games were awarded to Mexico City and the Winter Games to Grenoble, France.

Hosts of the 1972 games will be determined by the IOC during a meeting in Rome, Italy, about April 25, Brundage said.

Last Saturday Detroit was certified as the United States candidate for the 1972 Summer Games at a meeting here of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Detroit, which was second to Mexico City in the IOC voting on the 1968 games, won out over Los Angeles, St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia for a try at the 1972 Olympiad.

Salt Lake City got the call over Lake Placid, N.Y., and Anchorage, Alaska, as candidate for the 1972 Winter Games.

Brundage said Munich and Montreal submitted bids to him for the 1972 Olympiad and that he understood Madrid will "make a great try."

The 74-year-old IOC boss said he lacked information on rumored bids by Amsterdam, where the 1928 Olympiad was held, or Vienna.

Last year's regular IOC meeting was held in Madrid and Brundage said that "Spain has come to life" as an Olympic candidate.

—POLL 76 VOTES—

Comeback Title Won By Bears

George Halas, who will be 71 on Feb. 2, gained another honor Thursday when his Chicago Bears were named the comeback award winner of 1965 in the Associated Press' poll of 299 experts.

The Bears rallied from three straight defeats to nine victories in their next 10 games. They finished with a 9-5 record, reversing their 1964 mark of 5-9.

In the AP's comeback poll, the Bears received 76 first-place votes from the 299 participating sports writers and sportscasters.

Three first-place votes behind at 73 was Vernon Law, the Pittsburgh pitcher. The Los Angeles Dodgers placed third with 61 firsts and slugger Frank Howard of the Washington Senators was fourth with 27.

"I'm extremely pleased with the honor," said Halas. "The players deserved it and I want to thank the members of my coaching staff who made it possible."

Halas dropped a court suit to prevent Allen from becoming head coach of the Los Angeles Rams on Tuesday after the judge ruled Allen breached a Bear contract with two years to run.

"Our finish last season does give every indication of an outstanding team this year," he said. "We have some promising rookies—we signed most of our top draft choices.

"We began to jell last season when our new boys got to know our system and certainly Gale Sayers and Dick Butkus, who gave us tremendous impetus, should be even better next season.

"But we know every other team in our division will be improved, too."

On the Debit side, Halas must replace Allen as defensive coach; veteran defensive end Doug Atkins has quit; and linebacker Larry Morris wants to be traded to the new Atlanta Falcons.

Coach's Wife Found Dead

Coroner Don Allen said Mrs. Strannigan, about 45, was found by the coach when he came home from basketball practice.

Allen said a scarf was tied around Mrs. Strannigan's neck and attached to a shower curtain railing in the basement of the Strannigan home.

The coroner said Strannigan broke down the door to the shower room to find her body.

Mrs. Strannigan also is survived by four children—William, 11; Martha, 13; Susan, 20, and Theo Ann, 21.

Oldfield Gets 2nd Straight Smoker Win

Omaha — Dan Oldfield of Lincoln's Midwest Speedways Boxing Club won his second straight amateur boxing bout with a technical knockout verdict over Norm Lewenberger of Lincoln Roberts Dairy in a smoker Thursday night.

The smoker held at the Swedish Amateur was the final tuneup for fighters from Lincoln and Fairbury before they enter Southeast District action in Lincoln next Thursday and Saturday.

Oldfield opened a cut over Lewenberger's left eye in the second round and after halting the fight momentarily to check the cut, referee Gene Buzzello stopped the bout moments later when Lewenberger appeared unable to protect himself.

One minute and one second had elapsed in the second round when the bout was stopped.

Both Slocum and Oldfield will likely enter the ring next week in the 126-pound division.

Fred Rogers, Omaha, dec. Curt Lobner, Fairbury.
Tom Slocum, Lincoln Roberts, knocked out Pete Eitel, Lincoln Roberts, in 47 seconds of first round.

Orange Juice Dean's Choice At Tourney

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP) — Dean Martin came into the bar Thursday at Del Monte Lodge, headquarters of the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament —and ordered straight orange juice.

By Saturday or Sunday when only the hard core is left in contention, the boys may cut loose.

But no longer is the Crosby clambake the booze oasis it was once on the winter tour. A purse of $104,500 spoiled that. The pros want no drunken partners at those prices.

On the putting green at Cypress Point, most of the autograph hounds converged on Dean and Andy Williams.

After the signing was over, Dean announced to the large gallery:

"Andy Williams is the finest singer in the country."

Andy smiled — and then laughed sort of hysterically when Dean added:

"But he sounds lousy in the city."

"Lady," said Dean, "I knew something like you would show up the minute I quit drinking."

Bo Wininger then dramatized how much this tournament means to amateurs around the country.

"I know a guy up in San Francisco who lost his business, his house and his wife within the last three months. He never got upset until he was turned down for the Crosby tournament. So help me it's a true story."

Quipped Bing:

City Schools Test Outside Opponents

. . . ROCKETS HEAVY FAVORITES

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln's high school basketball teams turn their attention to outside opponents this weekend as only one of eight games scheduled calls for a meeting of two city clubs.

That one sends third-ranked Northeast against Pius X Saturday night in a preview of their March district tournament clash.

The Rockets, rolling along with all five starters sporting twin figure scoring averages, are heavy favorites to push their season mark to 8-1 in tests against Bishop Ryan and Piux X over the weekend.

Southeast, an improving club, can pull to within one game of the .500 mark if successful against Hastings and Bellevue.

The weekend forecast:

FRIDAY

Plattsmouth v. University High at Southeast—Blue Devils have had tough time getting into win column.

Northeast at Bishop Ryan — Might be closer than expected. Knights have pressed Boys Town and Tech in last two weeks.

SATURDAY

Pius X v. Northeast at Pershing—Rockets have too many weapons for Thunderbolts to defend.

Ashland v. University High at Southeast—Tutor shooters will get the job done.

Probably the biggest reason ducks settle in the Hollow is our unhurried way of life. Making Jack Daniel's whiskey is a slow process. Smoothing it out with Charcoal Mellowing is even slower. And after that it's matured in charred, white oak barrels by the changing seasons. So you see, taking it up to the warehouse is the fastest step of all. After a sip, we believe, you'll be glad it's the only step we do hurry.

Hunters are reminded that shooting hours for all upland game birds and small-game animals are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Detroit, Salt Lake City Bid For Olympic Games

. . . SITES TO BE CHOSEN APRIL 25

Chicago (AP) — The bidding deadline for the 1972 Olympics was reached Thursday with Detroit, Munich, Montreal and Madrid in competition for the Summer Games and Salt Lake City, Calgary, Alta., and Sapparo, Japan, seeking the Winter Games.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, said he was notified by ICC headquarters at Lusanne, Switzerland, that Amsterdam had dropped out as a Summer Games candidate.

Sites of the 1968 Olympics already have been designated. The Summer Games were awarded to Mexico City and the Winter Games to Grenoble, France.

Hosts of the 1972 games will be determined by the IOC during a meeting in Rome, Italy, about April 25, Brundage said.

Last Saturday Detroit was certified as the United States candidate for the 1972 Summer Games at a meeting here of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Detroit, which was second to Mexico City in the IOC voting on the 1968 games, won out over Los Angeles, St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia for a try at the 1972 Olympiad.

Salt Lake City got the call over Lake Placid, N.Y., and Anchorage, Alaska, as candidate for the 1972 Winter Games.

Brundage said Munich and Montreal submitted bids to him for the 1972 Olympiad and that he understood Madrid will "make a great try."

The 74-year-old IOC boss said he lacked information on rumored bids by Amsterdam, where the 1928 Olympiad was held, or Vienna.

Last year's regular IOC meeting was held in Madrid and Brundage said that "Spain has come to life" as an Olympic candidate.

—POLL 76 VOTES—

Comeback Title Won By Bears

George Halas, who will be 71 on Feb. 2, gained another honor Thursday when his Chicago Bears were named the comeback award winner of 1965 in the Associated Press' poll of 299 experts.

The Bears rallied from three straight defeats to nine victories in their next 10 games. They finished with a 9-5 record, reversing their 1964 mark of 5-9.

In the AP's comeback poll, the Bears received 76 first-place votes from the 299 participating sports writers and sportscasters.

Three first-place votes behind at 73 was Vernon Law, the Pittsburgh pitcher. The Los Angeles Dodgers placed third with 61 firsts and slugger Frank Howard of the Washington Senators was fourth with 27.

"I'm extremely pleased with the honor," said Halas. "The players deserved it and I want to thank the members of my coaching staff who made it possible."

Halas dropped a court suit to prevent Allen from becoming head coach of the Los Angeles Rams on Tuesday after the judge ruled Allen breached a Bear contract with two years to run.

"Our finish last season does give every indication of an outstanding team this year," he said. "We have some promising rookies—we signed most of our top draft choices.

"We began to jell last season when our new boys got to know our system and certainly Gale Sayers and Dick Butkus, who gave us tremendous impetus, should be even better next season.

"But we know every other team in our division will be improved, too."

On the Debit side, Halas must replace Allen as defensive coach; veteran defensive end Doug Atkins has quit; and linebacker Larry Morris wants to be traded to the new Atlanta Falcons.

Coach's Wife Found Dead

Coroner Don Allen said Mrs. Strannigan, about 45, was found by the coach when he came home from basketball practice.

Allen said a scarf was tied around Mrs. Strannigan's neck and attached to a shower curtain railing in the basement of the Strannigan home.

The coroner said Strannigan broke down the door to the shower room to find her body.

Mrs. Strannigan also is survived by four children—William, 11; Martha, 13; Susan, 20, and Theo Ann, 21.

Anaheim, Calif. (AP) — California Angels' veteran pitcher Ken McBride has been placed on the voluntarily retired list, the club announced Thursday.

Oldfield Gets 2nd Straight Smoker Win

Omaha — Dan Oldfield of Lincoln's Midwest Speedways Boxing Club won his second straight amateur boxing bout with a technical knockout verdict over Norm Lewenberger of Lincoln Roberts Dairy in a smoker Thursday night.

The smoker heid at the Swedish Amateur was the final tuneup for fighters from Lincoln and Fairbury before they enter Southeast District action in Lincoln next Thursday and Saturday.

Oldfield opened a cut over Lewenberger's left eye in the second round and after halting the fight momentarily to check the cut, referee Gene Buzzello stopped the bout moments later when Lewenberger appeared unable to protect himself.

Orange Juice Dean's Choice At Tourney

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP) — Dean Martin came into the bar Thursday at Del Monte Lodge, headquarters of the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament —and ordered straight orange juice.

But no longer is the Crosby clambake the booze oasis it was once on the winter tour. A purse of $104,500 spoiled that. The pros want no drunken partners at those prices.

"Andy Williams is the finest singer in the country."

"But he sounds lousy in the city."

"I know a guy up in San Francisco who lost his business, his house and his wife within the last three months. He never got upset until he was turned down for the Crosby tournament. So help me it's a true story."

Quipped Bing:

City Schools Test Outside Opponents

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln's high school basketball teams turn their attention to outside opponents this weekend as only one of eight games scheduled calls for a meeting of two city clubs.

That one sends third-ranked Northeast against Pius X Saturday night in a preview of their March district tournament clash.

The Rockets, rolling along with all five starters sporting twin figure scoring averages, are heavy favorites to push their season mark to 8-1 in tests against Bishop Ryan and Piux X over the weekend.

Southeast, an improving club, can pull to within one game of the .500 mark if successful against Hastings and Bellevue.

FRIDAY

Hastings v. Southeast at Wesleyan—Knights have been making progress.

Northeast at Bishop Ryan — Might be closer than expected. Knights have pressed Boys Town and Tech in last two weeks.

SATURDAY

Ashland v. University High at Southeast—Tutor shooters will get the job done.

Probably the biggest reason ducks settle in the Hollow is our unhurried way of life. Making Jack Daniel's whiskey is a slow process. Smoothing it out with Charcoal Mellowing is even slower. And after that it's matured in charred, white oak barrels by the changing seasons. So you see, taking it up to the warehouse is the fastest step of all. After a sip, we believe, you'll be glad it's the only step we do hurry.

Branch Leads Big 8 Statistics

. . . WESLEY TOPS SCORERS

By Associated Press

Nebraska's Nate Branch and Colorado's injured Chuck Gardner are the only big Eight basketball players listed among the leaders in scoring, rebounding, field shooting accuracy and free throw accuracy.

This should qualify them as the Big Eight's two best all-around performers, although neither one leads in any single category.

Walt Wesley, 6-foot-11 Kansas pivot, still leads in scoring with a 21.8 average, Don Smith of Iowa State still is the top rebounder with 14.4 a game and Kansas State's Larry Weigel remained first in free throw shooting at .882.

Nebraska's unbeaten Huskers lead in team scoring at 80.8 for four league games and they are on top in field shooting accuracy with .481, one point better than the conference season record.

The Huskers also have five players among the league's top 15, with Branch third at 19.8, Grant Simmons 14.0, Tom Baack 13.5, Campbell 13.0 and Stuart Lantz 12.3.

Branch is also No. 9 in rebounding at 8.0, No. 5 in field shooting with .524 and No. 9 in free throw shooting at .722.

The 6-foot-7 Gardner, due to miss at least the next two games with a foot injury, is second in scoring with 20.0, second in rebounding at 12.0, No. 8 in field shooting with .500 and No. 11 in rebounding with .700.

In rebounding Lantz is third at 10.3, Gary Franzier of Missouri has 9.0, Pino 9.0, Rogers 9.0. Wesley 8.8, Sidle 8.3, Charlie Rudd of Missouri 8.0, Ron Franz of Kansas 7.6 and Al Lopes of Kansas 7.6.

In the team figures, Oklahoma State leads in foul shooting at .789, K-State in rebounding with .554, K-State and Colorado in team defense 62.7.

Basketball Booms At Hiram Scott

. . . SCOTT CAGERS AVERAGE 110 PTS PER GAME

Scottsbluff (AP)—Classes began only last October at the new Hiram Scott College but already the basketball team is writing an exceptional sports record.

The lone loss, 101-98, was at Alamosa, Colo., to Adams State College.

Anderson, native of Gary, Ind., was a standout basketball player at Stanford, where he graduated in 1946. He posted a 32-5 record at Great Lakes Naval Training Center, his first coaching job. His career record is 336 victories and 208 losses.

Never anything but a head coach, Anderson led the basketball program at Drake and Bradley before going to Michigan State for 11 years. He left there last spring and became associated with Hiram Scott through long-time friendship with the college president, Anthony Marinaccio, who was school superintendent at Peoria, Ill., when Anderson was Bradley head coach.

The team's top scorer is Richey Moore, 23, a 6-foot-4, 295 pound sharpshooter from Philadelphia, Pa., who was the No. 4 future draft choice of the Philadelphia 76ers last spring. Moore, who played his sophomore season three years ago at Villanova is averaging 30.2 points per game.

The pivot, Henry Burlong, 23, a 6-6, 220-pound jumping jack, was the choice of the Ohio High School Coaches Association in 1962 as the most valuable high school player. Burlong, who played a season at University of Dayton, is scoring at an average of 22 points a game and leads the team in rebounds with 82 for six games.

The captain and playmaker is 25-year-old Jim Van Schapen, 6-3, 185-pounds, from Mulberry, Ind. He played seven years of Amateur Athletic Union basketball with a Lafayette, Ind., team. He's an outstanding passer and ball rustler.

Much of the spirit in this private 4-year liberal arts college, starting without any tax support, is centered around the basketball team.

Before its home opener last month, the entire student body of 525 assembled in a downtown theater for a pep rally. The college is utilizing various downtown buildings until its own facilities are constructed on a 625-acre campus.

The Scotts are affiliate members of the National Collegiate Athletic Association but expect to become full-fledged members upon graduation of its first class in the spring of 1967. This will be a class of transfer students.

Branch Leads Big 8 Statistics

. . . WESLEY TOPS SCORERS

By Associated Press

Nebraska's Nate Branch and Colorado's injured Chuck Gardner are the only big Eight basketball players listed among the leaders in scoring, rebounding, field shooting accuracy and free throw accuracy.

This should qualify them as the Big Eight's two best all-around performers, although neither one leads in any single category.

Walt Wesley, 6-foot-11 Kansas pivot, still leads in scoring with a 21.8 average, Don Smith of Iowa State still is the top rebounder with 14.4 a game and Kansas State's Larry Weigel remained first in free throw shooting at .882.

Nebraska's unbeaten Huskers lead in team scoring at 80.8 for four league games and they are on top in field shooting accuracy with .481, one point better than the conference season record.

The Huskers also have five players among the league's top 15, with Branch third at 19.8, Grant Simmons 14.0, Tom Baack 13.5, Campbell 13.0 and Stuart Lantz 12.3.

Branch is also No. 9 in rebounding at 8.0, No. 5 in field shooting with .524 and No. 9 in free throw shooting at .722.

The 6-foot-7 Gardner, due to miss at least the next two games with a foot injury, is second in scoring with 20.0, second in rebounding at 12.0, No. 8 in field shooting with .500 and No. 11 in rebounding with .700.

Seven pivotmen are among the top 15 scorers, from all but Missouri.

In rebounding Lantz is third at 10.3, Gary Franzier of Missouri has 9.0, Pino 9.0, Rogers 9.0. Wesley 8.8, Sidle 8.3, Charlie Rudd of Missouri 8.0, Ron Franz of Kansas 7.6 and Al Lopes of Kansas 7.6.

In the team figures, Oklahoma State leads in foul shooting at .789, K-State in rebounding with .554, K-State and Colorado in team defense 62.7.

Spain Officials Say Bomb Lost

. . . IN SAC CRASH IN SPAIN

Palomares, Spain (UPI)—The U.S. Air Force said Thursday a Strategic Air Command B52 bomber that crashed near here Monday was carrying nuclear arms. A Spanish official said one atomic bomb was still missing.

An Air Force statement said the weapons were unarmed and there was no danger.

But the Spanish government clamped a complete domestic news blackout on word a nuclear bomber had crashed. Observers said officials feared anti-American repercussions if it became general knowledge in Spain.

Tomato Region

An Air Force spokesman refused to confirm or deny that the search was for a bomb.

The SAC bomber which was engaged in a refueling operation off the coast of Spain and suffered an accident with a KC135 was carrying unarmed nuclear armament. Radiological surveys have established that there is no danger to public health or safety as a result of this accident," the Air Force statement read.

All four crew members aboard the KC135, a jet tanker, died. Four of the seven crewmen aboard the bomber parachuted to safety. The others were killed.

"Three bombs have been found by searchers but one is still missing and they are still searching," he said.

Farmers living in the area and correspondents were warned by a guard not to approach one charred mass of silver-colored metal. The guard said it was likely to be a source of contamination, possibly even a part of the missing bomb.

About 60 Guardia Civil (Spanish National Police) guarded the cordoned off area. They ordered an evacuation of the immediate crash area but no general evacuation.

Routine Refueling

The B52, attached to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in North Carolina, and the KC135, stationed at Bergstrom Air Force base, near Austin, Tex., were making a routine in-flight refueling at 30,000 feet over the Mediterranean when the collision occurred.

One man who arrived at the scene several hours after the crash, Roberto Puig, the municipal architect of the nearby village of Mojacar, said he saw one of the bombs embedded in the earth.

A "Broken Arrow" signal is sent whenever a nuclear weapon aboard a plane, transport or truck, is involved in an accident, the expert said, and a crew of specialists is rushed to the site.

At least 12 previous accidents involving nuclear weapons have been confirmed by the Air Force. This was believed the first in Europe.

West German Based Soviet Spies Caught

Bonn, Germany (AP) — A Russian spy ring active in the industrial heart of West Germany was reported Thursday to have been cracked. There was speculation it might have been after nuclear secrets.

An interior ministry spokesman said the group had been concerned with the collection of "scientific data in the sphere of physical microresearch."

He declined to elaborate on the term but some thought it might have to do with nuclear physics.

A leading scientist at the big Nuclear Research Center at Juelich, 23 miles west of Cologne, said the term was not known to him. The center is involved in nonmilitary nuclear research.

The interior ministry spokesman said the group operated in the state of North Rhine-Westphalia, and that three of its members were attached to the Soviet Trade Mission in Cologne.

Demonstrators' Deferment Plea Denied By Board

Royal Oak, Mich. (AP) — Two University of Michigan students were denied appeals to reinstate their college draft deferments Thursday.

The pair had been reclassified 1A, or immediately available for the draft, after being convicted of trespass in a draft board sit-in in Ann Arbor Oct. 15.

A spokesman for local board No. 323 of the Selective Service System in Royal Oak said, "We sent out their 1A cards yesterday."

"We are terribly disappointed but not surprised," said Ernest Mazey, director of the Michigan American Civil Liberties Union, which provided legal counsel to the students.

Mazey said both cases would be appealed to the Michigan Selective Service Appeals Board.

U.S. Jet Flames Out, Hits Small Thailand Village

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) — A U.S. Air Force F105 fighter-bomber's engine flamed out over northeastern Thailand Thursday, the pilot ejected and his plane crashed into the village of Sam Har. Reports said 16 villagers were killed.

RAPE CHARGE NETS 2 YEARS

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Thursday sentenced a rural Lincoln man to two years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on an assault with intent to rape charge.

Gene L. Steinhausen, 21, of Rt. 1, had pleaded nolo contendere Dec. 6 to a charge in connection with a March 9, 1965, incident involving an 18-year-old Lincoln girl.

LITTLE JOE PASSES TEST

White Sands Missile Range, N.M. (AP) — The escape system for Apollo astronauts passed a spectacular final flight test Thursday, and space agency spokesmen said the system is now ready for manned moon flights.

A Little Joe II rocket boosted a five-ton, unmanned Apollo spacecraft toward an altitude of about 15 miles. The escape system pulled the spacecraft clear of the Little Joe II in much the same way the system would work during a moon launch emergency.

It was the highest, most severe of six escape system tests at White Sands. The system now goes to Cape Kennedy, Fla., for incorporation in firings of Saturn 1B rockets.

Dr. Robert C. Larson, assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Nebraska, was elected 1966 chairman of the Nebraska section of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Henry F. Holtzclaw was named to a two-year term as councilor, and Dr. Henry E. Baumgarten was named alternate councilor, for two years.

The Nebraska section also announced the appointment of Dr. Holtzclaw to the council standing committee on publications which acts in an advisory capacity to the board of directors for all American Chemical Society publications.

Dog Concentration Camp Raider Calls For Action

Baltimore, Md. (AP) — An official of the U.S. Humane Society, who found a "concentration camp for dogs" in Maryland, called Thursday for passage of a bill before Congress to regulate dog dealers selling to research laboratories.

Frank J. McMahon, director of field services for the society, said the bill introduced in the House by Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., would make dog theft for research purposes a federal crime, and would establish standards for kenneling and shipping dogs.

McMahon said the national traffic in dogs, stolen or bought, amounts to $40 to $50 million a year.

"The most horrible thing I've ever seen" was the way McMahon described the scene when state police found more than 100 dogs in various stages of deterioration at a junk yard near White Hall, Md.

Lester J. Brown was arrested and charged with 29 counts of cruelty to animals. He posted $1,500 bond and was released pending a hearing, which State Police Capt. Thomas S. Smith said probably would be held early next week.

McMahon said Brown was a dealer in dogs, selling them to various institutions for research. The Humane Society official said the raids would continue, to illustrate the need for national legislation.

Federal Examiners Ordered To Birmingham Under Act

Washington (AP)—Federal examiners were ordered Thursday into Birmingham, Ala., and surrounding Jefferson County, to register Negro voters under the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said it is the largest metropolitan area designated to date under the five-month-old law.

A Justice Department spokesman said at least 20 registrars may be sent into Birmingham — where Negroes have been demonstrating in the streets for more registration opportunities — and nearby Bessemer and Fairfield. That is more than double the number sent into any of the 36 Southern counties previously designated for federal examiners under the act.

In Birmingham, County Dist. Atty. Earl C. Morgan called the order an insult. He said the board of registrars has been able to take care of all applicants and there is no need for federal examiners.

LBJ'S BUDGET TO CONGRESS ON MONDAY

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson will send Congress a record $112.8 billion budget Monday that could go higher if the war in Viet Nam gets worse.

Administration officials said their "best" estimate of the cost of the war in fiscal 1967, which starts July 1, is $10.5 billion.

Spain Officials Say Bomb Lost

. . . IN SAC CRASH IN SPAIN

Palomares, Spain (UPI)— The U.S. Air Force said Thursday a Strategic Air Command B52 bomber that crashed near here Monday was carrying nuclear arms. A Spanish official said one atomic bomb was still missing.

An Air Force statement said the weapons were unarmed and there was no danger.

But the Spanish government clamped a complete domestic news blackout on word a nuclear bomber had crashed. Observers said officials feared anti-American repercussions if it became general knowledge in Spain.

Tomato Region

An Air Force spokesman refused to confirm or deny that the search was for a bomb.

The SAC bomber which was engaged in a refueling operation off the coast of Spain and suffered an accident with a KC135 was carrying unarmed nuclear armament. Radiological surveys have established that there is no danger to public health or safety as a result of this accident," the Air Force statement read.

All four crew members aboard the KC135, a jet tanker, died. Four of the seven crewmen aboard the bomber parachuted to safety. The others were killed.

"Three bombs have been found by searchers but one is still missing and they are still searching," he said.

Villagers in the area are "frightened to death over the prospect of having a possible nuclear bomb in their backyard," he said.

Farmers living in the area and correspondents were warned by a guard not to approach one charred mass of silver-colored metal. The guard said it was likely to be a source of contamination, possibly even a part of the missing bomb.

About 60 Guardia Civil (Spanish National Police) guarded the cordoned off area. They ordered an evacuation of the immediate crash area but no general evacuation.

FAA Probing Jet Survival Features

Washington (UPI) The Federal Aviation Agency disclosed Thursday it has started a major investigation into the crash survival features of modern jets.

The project was announced by FAA Administrator William F. McKee in a letter to Charles Murphy, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. It stems largely from the crash of a Boeing 727 at Salt Lake City last Nov. 11 in which 43 of the 82 passengers aboard died — all from smoke inhalation.

The United Air Lines jet landed about 300 feet short of the runway, catching fire when the main landing gear collapsed and ruptured a fuel line in the belly. The fire spread while the plane skidded on its belly for about 3,000 feet, cutting evacuation time to less than the two minute maximum in which survival is likely.

Actions

McKee's letter was in response to recommendations made by the CAB's Bureau of Safety during its investigation of the Salt Lake City accident. The FAA chief listed these actions:

—All airlines and aircraft manufacturers will hold a series of meetings in the coming weeks with FAA and CAB experts to discuss means of improving the chances for crash survival on all jets.

—Boeing is rerouting the electrical lines in its 727 to separate them as far as possible from the fuel lines as a fire-prevention move, and also is strengthening key components.

—Boeing is strengthening the 727's landing gear.

Fire Standards

—FAA is considering new fire protection standards for aircraft cabin interior materials, involving their ability to resist fire and eliminate any toxic effects.

The FAA rejected a CAB suggestion that the fuel line in the 727 be relocated. McKee said the lines are surrounded by the heaviest structure available in their present location, and that moving them inboard, as the CAB recommended, would make them vulnerable to rupture by objects in the cargo compartment.

Harry Moore Suicide Victim

Harry C. Moore, 70, of 135 So. 37th, apparently committed suicide early Thursday evening by firing a rifle bullet into his head, according to Deputy County Atty. Ronald Lahners.

Moore was at his home when the incident occurred.

Antitrust Unit Makes Move In Fight To Run Rock Island

Washington (AP)—The Justice Department moved Thursday to intervene in the battle for control of the Rock Island Railroad.

The department's Antitrust Division said it is not now expressing an opinion on the contest between the Union Pacific and Chicago & North Western Railway for control of the Rock Island.

But it asked the Interstate Commerce Commission —which begins hearings on the controversy March 7—to reverse past procedure and order full advance disclosure by all parties of statistics and information that might bear on the merger.

The Justice Department legally has no control over railroad mergers as it does over consolidations in other fields, but nearly always expressed opinions to the ICC on the likely competitive effects of rail mergers.

The department's petition Thursday pointed out that either of the unifications proposed would result in extensive restructuring of the nation's railroads west of Chicago.

Sen. Curtis Says Charge 'Nonsense'

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., Thursday brushed aside a Democratic charge that he attempted to take credit for a more than $8 million federal grant to the University of Nebraska Medical College.

State Democratic Party Chairman John Mitchell of Kearney had accused Curtis of wasting no time in praising the grant although the senator actually voted against the law making it possible.

Curtis said once the legislation had been enacted, he did everything possible to assist the University in getting its application approved..

"Even though I opposed the legislation," he said, "it is still the law of the land and when I am asked to help out fellow Nebraskans, I always do this."

Curtis said College of Medicine officials asked him to aid in the effort to obtain the money.

"The charge against me appears to be sheer nonsense," Curtis said. "The grant to the university was provided by all taxpayers, including those in Nebraska, regardless of party affiliation."

First Federal Savings, Loan Reports Outstanding Year

During 1965 assets increased $16,350,000 to a new high of $162,050,000. This represents an increase of 11% over 1964. The net increase in savings accounts for the year amounted to $10,290,000, or 8%, bringing the total to $134,700,000.

The association paid 4% dividends amounting to $5,119,000 and financed 399 new homes for a total of $7,554,000. The mortgage loan balance increased by 12%, $15,280,000, to a total $143,700,000.

Reserves and surplus were increased by $1,052,000 to $8,937,000.

Mrs. Gladys Forsyth, president of First Federal, said that she believes 1966 will be another good year because Lincoln housing has absorbed the impact of the air base closing and local business is prospering.

She is confident that both Lincoln and Omaha will continue to attract more industries during the coming year and that agriculture in Nebraska will forge ahead.

William J. Seiboldt Jr. of Lincoln and Walter Johnson of Holdrege were re-elected to the board of directors for three-year terms. Mrs. Forsyth was re-elected president.

FAA Probing Jet Survival Features

Washington (UPI) The Federal Aviation Agency disclosed Thursday it has started a major investigation into the crash survival features of modern jets.

The project was announced by FAA Administrator William F. McKee in a letter to Charles Murphy, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. It stems largely from the crash of a Boeing 727 at Salt Lake City last Nov. 11 in which 43 of the 82 passengers aboard died — all from smoke inhalation.

The United Air Lines jet landed about 300 feet short of the runway, catching fire when the main landing gear collapsed and ruptured a fuel line in the belly. The fire spread while the plane skidded on its belly for about 3,000 feet, cutting evacuation time to less than the two minute maximum in which survival is likely.

Actions

McKee's letter was in response to recommendations made by the CAB's Bureau of Safety during its investigation of the Salt Lake City accident. The FAA chief listed these actions:

—All airlines and aircraft manufacturers will hold a series of meetings in the coming weeks with FAA and CAB experts to discuss means of improving the chances for crash survival on all jets.

—Boeing is rerouting the electrical lines in its 727 to separate them as far as possible from the fuel lines as a fire-prevention move, and also is strengthening key components.

—Boeing is strengthening the 727's landing gear.

Fire Standards

—FAA is considering new fire protection standards for aircraft cabin interior materials, involving their ability to resist fire and eliminate any toxic effects.

The FAA rejected a CAB suggestion that the fuel line in the 727 be relocated. McKee said the lines are surrounded by the heaviest structure available in their present location, and that moving them inboard, as the CAB recommended, would make them vulnerable to rupture by objects in the cargo compartment.

Harry Moore Suicide Victim

Harry C. Moore, 70, of 135 So. 37th, apparently committed suicide early Thursday evening by firing a rifle bullet into his head, according to Deputy County Atty. Ronald Lahners.

Moore was at his home when the incident occurred.

Antitrust Unit Makes Move In Fight To Run Rock Island

Washington (AP)—The Justice Department moved Thursday to intervene in the battle for control of the Rock Island Railroad.

The department's Antitrust Division said it is not now expressing an opinion on the contest between the Union Pacific and Chicago & North Western Railway for control of the Rock Island.

But it asked the Interstate Commerce Commission—which begins hearings on the controversy March 7—to reverse past procedure and order full advance disclosure by all parties of statistics and information that might bear on the merger.

The Justice Department legally has no control over railroad mergers as it does over consolidations in other fields, but nearly always expressed opinions to the ICC on the likely competitive effects of rail mergers.

The department's petition Thursday pointed out that either of the unifications proposed would result in extensive restructuring of the nation's railroads west of Chicago.

Late Selling Hurts Uncertain Market

New York (AP)— Late selling nudged an uncertain stock market to a loss Thursday. Trading was fairly active.

Brokers said profit-taking and concern over steadily rising interest rates dampened the market. Despite a favorable government report on December housing starts and rising automobile output, there was little economic news to buoy prices.

Losers among the 1,429 issues traded outnumbered gainers, 701 to 500. There were 66 stocks at their 1965-66 highs. Twenty-two issues were at their lows.

Steels and motors were mostly lower. Aerospace defense issues were mixed. Boeing ran up several points during the day but its gain was trimmed to 1¼.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher in active trading.

U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged. Corporate bonds were lower.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Practical Approach Needed To Attain Financial Goals

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

There may indeed be excitement when a demagogue attacks financial institutions, but in his own self advancement the would-be estate builder requires a different type of insight into banks, trust companies, brokers, investment dealers and insurance funds. He needs to understand them as tools which can aid him fulfill his own goals.

Unless there is such a practical approach to financial affairs, the aspirations of those who desire to be thrifty can be frustrated.

Boob Appeal

Similarly the blue sky security racketeer, similarly taking advantage of wishful thinking, relies on suckerbait rather than the facts of life.

Escaping from reality, the sucker ignores practical signposts and wistfully dreams. The sucker is suggestible and the pictures in his mind are sometimes planted by exploiters.

The sucker himself is subject to mass delusions and lacks the capacity for self discipline. For example, prior to the break in stock prices in the spring of 1962, the gullible were attracted to any promotion linked to the electronic and scientific industries. The basic premise was correct, but the error lay in lack of selectivity as to which personalities and ventures to back.

The automobile industry has been the outstanding industrial success of the twentieth century, yet all of the scores of pioneer motor car companies except four have disappeared. Similarly many new ventures attempt to get a foothold in changing industrial opportunities, but some fall by the wayside. Others are absorbed by stronger and better managed companies.

No Sure Thing

Knowing the nature of competition, the prudent man, unlike the sucker doesn't look for a sure thing. He recognizes that there is inherent risk in business growing out of the necessity of making decisions today about trends and developments tomorrow and next year.

The analytical person, in investing his savings, knows that there are a variety of hazards, not only as to the future prospects of a company and an industry and the national economy as a whole, but also as to the future buying power of the dollar (inflation).

Wherever possible, it makes sense to transfer risks to others. The hazard of premature death can be met through a life insurance policy. The baker, contracting ahead for the sale of bread, can avoid loss through a rise in wheat prices through hedging in the commodity futures market.

The person, who wishes to limit his speculative commitment, can get a participation in future stock price improvement through such devices as convertible bonds or the purchase of stock warrants. The warrant gives the right to buy a specified amount of a given stock within a stipulated period at a fixed price. The warrant is exercised only if it is profitable to do so, but the investor pays a price for the privilege.

Can Limit Risk

In the same category, the short term stock trader can limit his risk in the put and call market through the purchase of various privileges. A put gives the holder of stock the right to sell it within a specified period to a given buyer at a stipulated price. The owner of the put exercises it only if the price mentioned in the put is higher than the price prevailing in the open market. The call, on the other hand, gives a short term option to buy stock at a fixed price, and protects one from the hazard of being a non-participant in a runaway market.

The ordinary investor, wanting to limit risk, can avoid trying to predict short term movements in the stock market by the technique of "dollar averaging". This entails placing the same number of dollars in precisely the same securities periodically— either monthly, quarterly or annually.

The prudent can also limit risk by getting professional investment counsel either directly from investment counsel firms on a fee basis, or indirectly through the acquisition of "financial packages of convenience", such as open end and closed end investment companies and common trust ministered by professionals in trust companies and banks.

Banks, savings institutions, mutual funds, and investment workers are tools which can help you fulfill your personal and family ambitions for more material wellbeing.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Plucknett Farm Elevator, Grain Lost In Flames

Lincoln Star Special

In addition to the elevator loss, 10,000 bushels of grain were partially destroyed and modern push button feeding machinery facilities were damaged.

The farm including the extensive cattle feeding operations, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Plucknett and sons Eldon and Glenn. It is located three miles southeast of De Witt.

Loss of the elevator and grain forced the Plucknetts later Thursday to move their cattle, some 2,400 head, via 40 trucks to the commercial feed yards at Valley.

No estimate on the loss was available.

Grain Market Prices Climb; Trade Slow

Chicago (AP)—The grain futures market closed with more gains than losses Thursday after a generally slow trade limited almost entirely to speculators.

Soybeans finished with advances 2 cents a bushel or more on most deliveries and with some contracts recovering all the losses of Wednesday's declines. At the close, wheat was ⅛-⅜ lower, March $1.68⅜-¼; corn ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, March $1.29⅜-⅜; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, March 73 cents; rye ⅜ to 1 cent higher, March $1.36⅛; soybeans ½ to 2¾ higher, January $2.85-86.

Allen Resigns As Prexy Of Wheat Group

Allen

Allen said he must devote more time to his farming and elevator business.

Allen was re-elected in November of 1964 and re-elected last month.

Association secretary Ray Stack said the nominating committee will select a candidate to fill the vacancy, subject to approval of the board of directors at a Feb. 21 meeting in Ogallala.

Stack said Ray Davis of Potter, one of four vice presidents of the association, "has indicated he would be available" to assume the presidency if selected.

Probe Of Alleged Discrimination Okay By Ramsey

Nebraska City (AP) — John Ramsey, administrator of St. Mary's hospital in Nebraska City, says an investigation will be welcomed into allegations of discrimination against Negroes.

The Governor's Commission on Human Rights last week said Mrs. W. B. Jackson of Omaha wrote complaining of the treatment given Negroes at St. Mary's Hospital Jan. 1 following a traffic accident in which a Kansas couple was killed and five Omaha Negroes were injured. The Health Department was asked to investigate.

Late Selling Hurts Uncertain Market

Brokers said profit-taking and concern over steadily rising interest rates dampened the market. Despite a favorable government report on December housing starts and rising automobile output, there was little economic news to buoy prices.

Low-price stocks dotted the top of the active list. Brunswick, most active on a turnover of 239,600 shares, rose ¾ to 11⅝.

Blue-chips were weak. Losses were mostly fractional but some widened to more than a point as the day wore on.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped .5 to 368.0 with industrials off 1.6, rails up .6 and utilities off .3.

Losers among the 1,429 issues traded outnumbered gainers, 701 to 500. There were 66 stocks at their 1965-66 highs. Twenty-two issues were at their lows.

Steels and motors were mostly lower. Aerospace defense issues were mixed. Boeing ran up several points during hte day but its gain was trimmed to 1¼.

Electronics were mixed.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher in active trading.

U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged. Corporate bonds were lower.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Practical Approach Needed To Attain Financial Goals

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

There may indeed be excitement when a demagogue attacks financial institutions, but in his own self advancement the would-be estate builder requires a different type of insight into banks, trust companies, brokers, investment dealers and insurance funds. He needs to understand them as tools which can aid him fulfill his own goals.

Unless there is such a practical approach to financial affairs, the aspirations of those who desire to be thrifty can be frustrated.

Boob Appeal

Similarly the blue sky security racketeer, simlarly taking advantage of wishful thinking, relies on sucker-bait rather than the facts of life.

Escaping from reality, the sucker ignores practical signposts and wistfully dreams. The sucker is suggestible and the pictures in his mind are sometimes planted by exploiters.

The sucker himself is subject to mass delusions and lacks the capacity for self discipline. For example, prior to the break in stock prices in the spring of 1962, the gullible were attracted to any promotion linked to the electronic and scientific industries. The basic premise was correct, but the error lay in lack of selectivity as to which personalities and ventures to back.

The automobile industry has been the outstanding industrial success of the twentieth century, yet all of the scores of pioneer motor car companies except four have disappeared. Similarly many new ventures attempt to get a foothold in changing industrial opportunities, but some fall by the wayside. Others are absorbed by stronger and better managed companies.

No Sure Thing

Knowing the nature of competition, the prudent man, unlike the sucker doesn't look for a sure thing. He recognizes that there is inherent risk in business growing out of the necessity of making decisions today about trends and developments tomorrow and next year.

The analytical person, in investing his savings, knows that there are a variety of hazards, not only as to the future prospects of a company and an industry and the national economy as a whole, but also as to the future buying power of the dollar (inflation).

Wherever possible, it makes sense to transfer risks to others. The hazard of premature death can be met through a life insurance policy. The baker, contracting ahead for the sale of bread, can avoid loss through a rise in wheat prices through hedging in the commodity futures market.

The person, who wishes to limit his speculative commitment, can get a participation in future stock price improvement through such devices as convertible bonds or the purchase of stock warrants. The warrant gives the right to buy a specified amount of a given stock within a stipulated period at a fixed price. The warrant is exercised only if it is profitable to do so, but the investor pays a price for the privilege.

Can Limit Risk

In the same category, the short term stock trader can limit his risk in the put and call market through the purchase of various privileges. A put gives the holder of stock the right to sell it within a specified period to a given buyer at a stipulated price. The owner of the put exercises it only if the price mentioned in the put is higher than the price prevailing in the open market. The call, on the other hand, gives a short term option to buy stock at a fixed price, and protects one from the hazard of being a non-participant in a runaway market.

The ordinary investor, wanting to limit risk, can avoid trying to predict short term movements in the stock market by the technique of "dollar averaging". This entails placing the same number of dollars in precisely the same securities periodically—either monthly, quarterly or annually.

The prudent can also limit risk by getting professional investment counsel either directly from investment counsel firms on a fee basis, or indirectly through the acquisition of "financial packages of convenience", such as open end and closed end investment companies and common trust ministered by professionals in trust companies and banks.

Banks, savings institutions, mutual funds, and investment workers are tools which can help you fulfill your personal and family ambitions for more material wellbeing.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Pluckett Farm Elevator, Grain Lost In Flames

Lincoln Star Special

In addition to the elevator loss, 10,000 bushels of grain were partially destroyed and modern push button feeding machinery facilities were damaged.

The farm including the extensive cattle feeding operations, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Plucknett and sons Eldon and Glenn. It is located three miles southeast of De Witt.

Loss of the elevator and grain forced the Plucknetts later Thursday to move their cattle, some 2,400 head, via 40 trucks to the commercial feed yards at Valley.

Firemen from De Witt, Plymouth and Wilber were on hand to battle the flames in below freezing temperatures.

No estimate on the loss was available.

Allen Resigns As Prexy Of Wheat Group

Allen

Allen said he must devote more time to his farming and elevator business.

Allen was named president in 1964 to succeed William Colwell of Hay Springs, who resigned to seek a seat in Congress.

Allen was re-elected in November of 1964 and reelected last month.

Association secretary Ray Stack said the nominating committee will select a candidate to fill the vacancy, subject to approval of the board of directors at a Feb. 21 meeting in Ogallala.

Stack said Ray Davis of Potter, one of four vice presidents of the association, "has indicated he would be available" to assume the presidency if selected.

Probe Of Alleged Discrimination Okay By Ramsey

Nebraska City (AP) — John Ramsey, administrator of St. Mary's hospital in Nebraska City, says an investigation will be welcomed into allegations of discrimination against Negroes.

The Governor's Commission on Human Rights last week said Mrs. W. B. Jackson of Omaha wrote complaining of the treatment given Negroes at St. Mary's Hospital Jan. 1 following a traffic accident in which a Kansas couple was killed and five Omaha Negroes were injured. The Health Department was asked to investigate.

Six Defendants Guilty Of Drug Conspiracy

New York (UPI) — A federal judge Thursday imposed unprecedented jail sentences on six defendants found guilty of a conspiracy to steal $30 million worth of American "wonder drug" secrets for sale in Europe.

The case was believed to be the first successful prosecution of industrial espionage in the United States. It ended years of legal wrangling over the 1958 theft of antibiotic secrets from Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, N.Y., a division of the American Cyanamid Co.

The sale of the secrets to pharamaceutical manufacturers in Italy, where there are no drug patent laws, enabled foreign producers to undersell Cyanamid throughout the world and even in the United States at a loss of more than $5 million to the firm. Even the foreign products because of their low bids.

Judge Charles M. Metzner sentenced the alleged mastermind of the scheme, Nathan Scharff, 51, of Teaneck, N.J., to two years in prison. He was continued in $2,500 bail pending appeal.

Seymour R. Salb, 49 of Monsey, N.Y., an associate of Scharff, and Dr. Caesar C. Bottone, 38, a chemish of Englewood, N.J., who had pleaded not guilty along with Scharff, also drew two-year prison terms. Bottone was continued in $2,500 bail and Slab in $1,000 pending appeal.

Three other defendants who had pleaded guilty received six-month jail terms.

Metzner said he was "surprised" that persons of such high caliber would stoop to such ventures. He said sentences must be imposed as a deterrent to others in such positions.

Ousted Coeds To Be Back For VISTA

Washington (UPI) — Two coeds who were ousted from a Wisconsin north woods Indian reservation last month in a dispute over their work in the war on poverty will return to the reservation, a government spokesman said Thursday.

A representative of the Office of Economic Opportunity said Judy Rothman 22, St. Louis, Mo., and Jill Hunt, 20, Kewanee, Ill., would be sent back to the Red Cliff Indian Reservation as workers for the Volunteers In Service To America (VISTA).

A critic of the girls' activities on the reservation said at Bayfield, Wis., that she was "shocked" the workers were being sent back.

Group Formed To Keep Income Tax Issue Off Ballot

Papillion (AP) — An organization has been formed in Sarpy County to raise funds for the purpose of keeping the income tax bill, LB 797 off the November ballot.

Lester Lutz of Papillion, who was named chairman, said the funds will also be used for a petition drive to place on the ballot the question of the right of the Nebraska Legislature to levy a property tax for state purposes.

Attempt Made To Lick Greasy Wall Problem

Six Defendants Guilty Of Drug Conspiracy

New York (UPI) — A federal judge Thursday imposed unprecedented jail sentences on six defendants found guilty of a conspiracy to steal $30 million worth of American "wonder drug" secrets for sale in Europe.

The case was believed to be the first successful prosecution of industrial espionage in the United States. It ended years of legal wrangling over the 1958 theft of antibiotic secrets from Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, N.Y., a division of the American Cyanamid Co.

The sale of the secrets to pharamaceutical manufacturers in Italy, where there are no drug patent laws, enabled foreign producers to undersell Cyanamid throughout the world and even in the United States at a loss of more than $5 million to the firm. Even the foreign products because of their low bids.

Judge Charles M. Metzner sentenced the alleged mastermind of the scheme, Nathan Scharff, 51, of Teaneck, N.J., to two years in prison. He was continued in $2,500 bail pending appeal.

Seymour R. Salb, 49 of Monsey, N.Y., an associate of Scharff, and Dr. Caesar C. Bottone, 38, a chemish of Englewood, N.J., who had pleaded not guilty along with Scharff, also drew two-year prison terms. Bottone was continued in $2,500 bail and Slab in $1,000 pending appeal.

Three other defendants who had pleaded guilty received six-month jail terms.

Metzner said he was "surprised" that persons of such high caliber would stoop to such ventures. He said sentences must be imposed as a deterrent to others in such positions.

Ousted Coeds To Be Back For VISTA

Washington (UPI) — Two coeds who were ousted from a Wisconsin north woods Indian reservation last month in a dispute over their work in the war on poverty will return to the reservation, a government spokesman said Thursday.

A representative of the Office of Economic Opportunity said Judy Rothman 22, St. Louis, Mo., and Jill Hunt, 20, Kewanee, Ill., would be sent back to the Red Cliff Indian Reservation as workers for the Volunteers In Service To America (VISTA).

A critic of the girls' activities on the reservation said at Bayfield, Wis., that she was "shocked" the workers were being sent back.

Group Formed To Keep Income Tax Issue Off Ballot

Papillion (AP) — An organization has been formed in Sarpy County to raise funds for the purpose of keeping the income tax bill, LB 797 off the November ballot.

Lester Lutz of Papillion, who was named chairman, said the funds will also be used for a petition drive to place on the ballot the question of the right of the Nebraska Legislature to levy a property tax for state purposes.

Attempt Made To Lick Greasy Wall Problem

Gene Budig, administrative assistant to Gov. Frank Morrison, said the old seating arrangement permitted persons waiting to see the governor to rest their heads against the walls.
